Barons -

Students arriving, bells ringing, teachers lecturing, bells ringing again, students leaving . . . A typical day at DHS? Unfortunately, most students would answer "Yes" to that question.

The 1988 SABER is going to try to change your view and bring you . . . The Barons . . . From a Different Dimension.

One of the new dimensions to enter the hearts of DHS students was the "Focus on Health" seminar that took place in our gym. And juniors and freshmen were stressed with the opportunity to take the ISTEP tests for the first time.

Now, open your eyes and prepare yourself to see the Barons . . . From a Different Dimension.

IN STUDENT LIFE

Barons Enjoy Fall Tradition

Preparations began early in 1987 for DeKalb County's Free Fall Fair which traditionally is held at the end of September. But all of the hard work paid off as DHS students did well at the fair.

The Baron Brigade marched its way down the streets of Auburn right into the hearts of many spectators. They received first place for marching bands and the Sweepstakes award in Saturday's parade.

At the same time, the show choir sang and danced their way into first place in the contest held on Tuesday evening.

Many students were excused from school during the fair to participate in 4-H fair activities. Preparing for the showing of animals takes a lot of time and patience as well as money. One of the many Barons who had success at the fair was Jason Snyder, who not only showed sheep, but also received champion on his pigeons.

Campus Life again sponsored the Mousehole. It was open every night of the fair and was a place to go, relax, and eat while talking to kids your age and watching music videos.

Shannon Weilbaker looks her best as she takes part in the evening gown competition for DeKalb Fair Queen.

Anne Scranage takes time from the regular classroom on the art class field trip to draw memories of the fair.

FALL PLAY

Ebenezer Learns About Christmas

Bah! Humbug! These are the words usually associated with Ebenezer Scrooge, the main character in Charles Dickens' story of "A Christmas Carol." A play based on this well-known story was presented in the DHS auditorium on December 4 and 5. Directed by Kent and Shelly Johnson, the performances were not humbug. John Bry played the part of Dickens as he worked on the creation of the story.

The part of Ebenezer Scrooge, a rich old man who cares nothing about Christmas except for the business he will lose, was played by Steve Crawford.

Three ghosts visited Scrooge trying to help him understand the true meaning of Christmas. The first, the Spirit of Christmas Past, played by Kim Madajewski, showed Scrooge how Christmas had been in the past. The Ghost of Christmas Present, played by John MacDonald, pointed out to Scrooge what he is doing wrong now. Then the Spirit of Christmas Future, Bill Snavley, allowed Scrooge to see into the future and know what would happen to him if he didn't change his ways. In the end, Scrooge learned his lessons and there was a happy ending.

The whole cast as well as the choirs and stage crew worked well together and made the fall play a hit.

Visiting a scene from a Christmas in his past, Scrooge remembers how happy Christmas used to be.

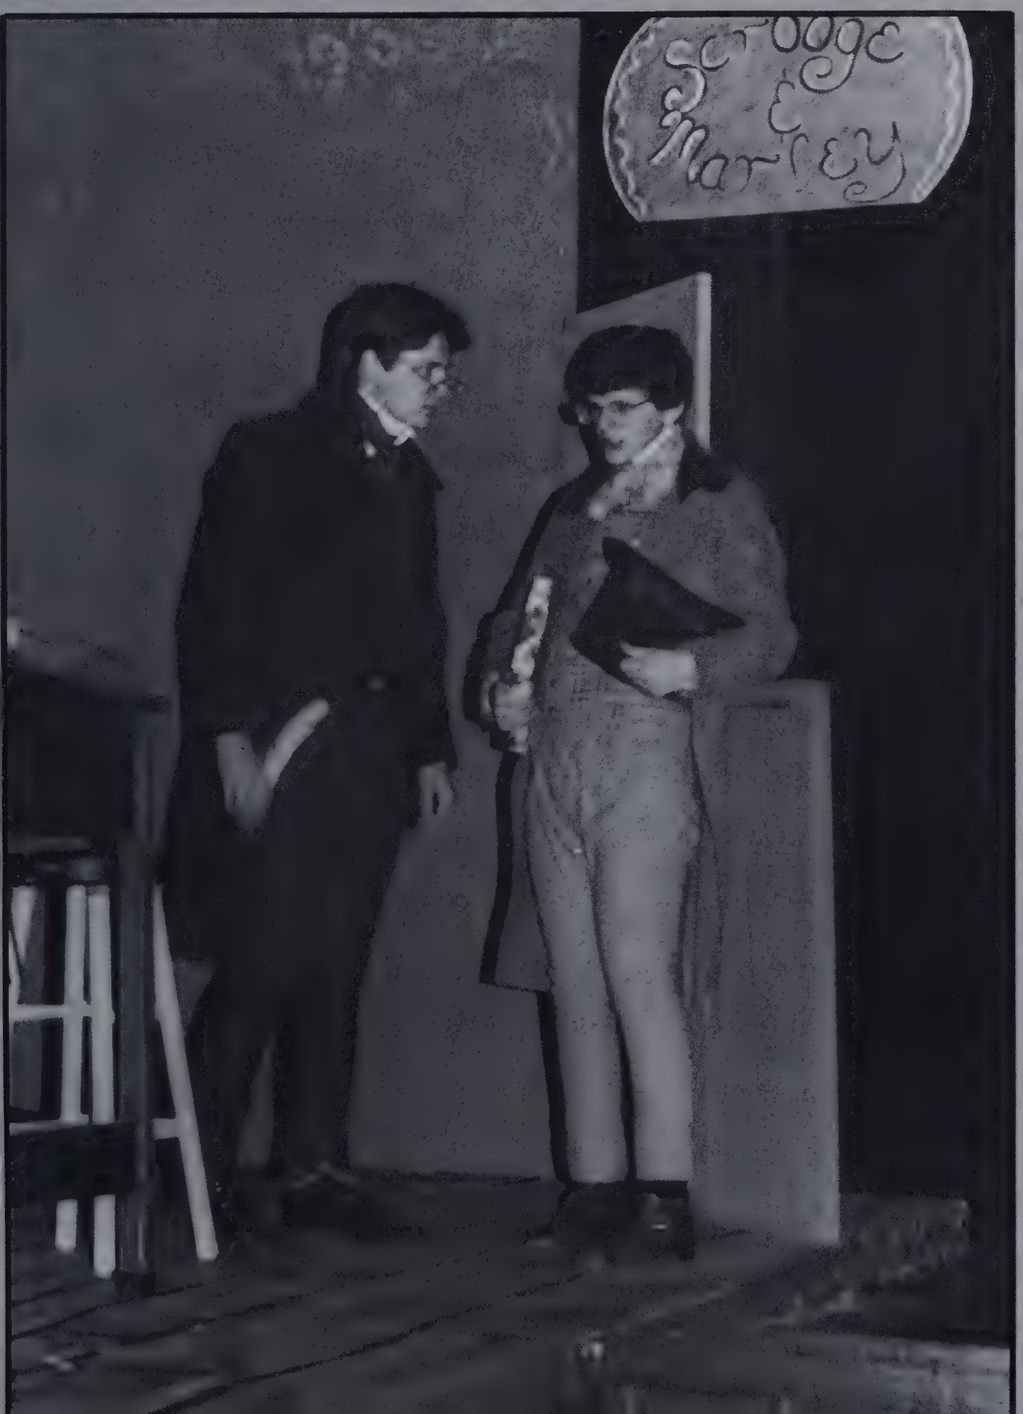
"Is this what my future has in store?" questions Scrooge as he sees an all-too-familiar name on a tombstone in the cemetery.



Chained by the errors of his past, Jacob Marley, played by Dirk McKown, makes a visit to the stage to make an impression on Scrooge.

Shrouded by the cloak of what-is-yet-to-be, the Ghost of Christmas Future makes Scrooge realize his past mistakes.

Scrooge, played by Steve Crawford, left, tries to put a damper on the Christmas spirits of Cratchit's nephew Fred, played by Mark Gurtner.

Flashing Lights Create Atmosphere

Darkness pierced by flashing colorful lights and loud music filled the commons after many of the home football and basketball games. Barons slipped in to enjoy themselves in the victory of the game or other times just to have fun.

Some dances included special activities. One dance was held in honor of Ruby Navarro, one of DHS's foreign exchange students. Another included a lip sync contest, where groups performed popular and some old songs.

Many students turned out for special dances. The country style Sadie Hawkins attracted many couples to "Hoedown" to the music and get "hitched" to that special someone. Also, at the end of February the choirs sponsored a MORP where trash was used to decorate the commons and prizes were awarded for the worst dressed couple.

Many Barons made a quick pit stop at McDonald's after the dances to regain energy lost in the dance and to sit and talk with friends before going home.

Every dance seemed to be enjoyed by most everyone who attended. And it was hard to go and not have fun!

HOLIDAYS

Yuletide Spirit Means Santa, Food, Song

Yuletide spirit was rampant in the halls of DHS toward the end of December. Since classes continued until the 23rd, Barons found homework and Christmas shopping in competition for their valuable time. Some took on extra jobs or extra hours to earn enough money to buy a nice gift for that someone special.

Teachers decorated their rooms in special holiday trimmings, and a tree in the commons was a gift from the Student Council.

Other clubs and organizations had special holiday activities. The German Club invited German students from neighboring schools to a Christmas dinner where they sang carols in German and had food with a German flavor.

The choirs and bands presented their traditional programs to the community and then combined forces for a convo for students. Nearly all programs featured an appearance by Santa. He was on hand at an after-game dance sponsored by SADD to hear students' special requests.

Jody Stout helps to prepare a delicious Christmas meal for the teachers as a project in her foods class.

Members of the choir gather around Santa to bring an end to the Christmas program for the student body.

How do you deal with the everyday pressures of school? Mike Houser helps one student by checking her blood pressure for Focus on Health.

FOCUS ON HEALTH —

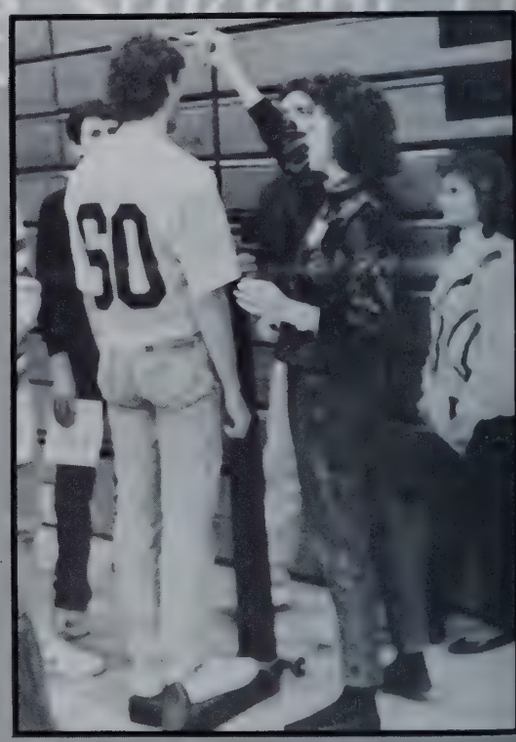
Council Sponsors Helpful Program

A different dimension at DHS was Focus on Health, conducted by the Student Council in cooperation with a Fort Wayne television station. Held in the gym, it was open to all students.

Focus on Health was a unique way to test students' health. It included such things as heart rate and blood pressure, as well as registering their correct height and weight. There was a special dentistry section that most students kept away from in fear that a real appointment may be necessary for them in the near future.

Various health-related organizations also had displays with information available. Groups such as the American Red Cross took part in this. The most interesting of all of the displays was probably the chance for healthy, able students to experience exactly what it is like to be disabled. Traveling in a wheelchair, they encountered such things as closed doors needing to be opened and cords on their path that they needed to cross without tipping themselves out of the chair.

In most cases, the students enjoyed themselves at Focus on Health while, at the same time, doing something that was actually "good for them."



Do you know your vital statistics? Above, Mica Cole helps Kevin Geeting find out his height and weight as Traci Schlosser and others wait their turn.

EXCHANGE STUDENTS —

Foreign Guests Aid Understanding

The Home of the Barons was home also to several students from outside our borders — from both Europe and Asia. South America was also represented by Ruby Navarro of Columbia, who left at the end of first semester and was featured in the 1987 SABER.

Representing Germany were Dirk Husemann and Lars Schlichting. Dirk, from Bielfeld, stayed with Irvin and Carolyn Hart in Auburn, and Lars, from Goslar, stayed with the Melvin Deardorf family. Both were in the U.S. for eleven months.

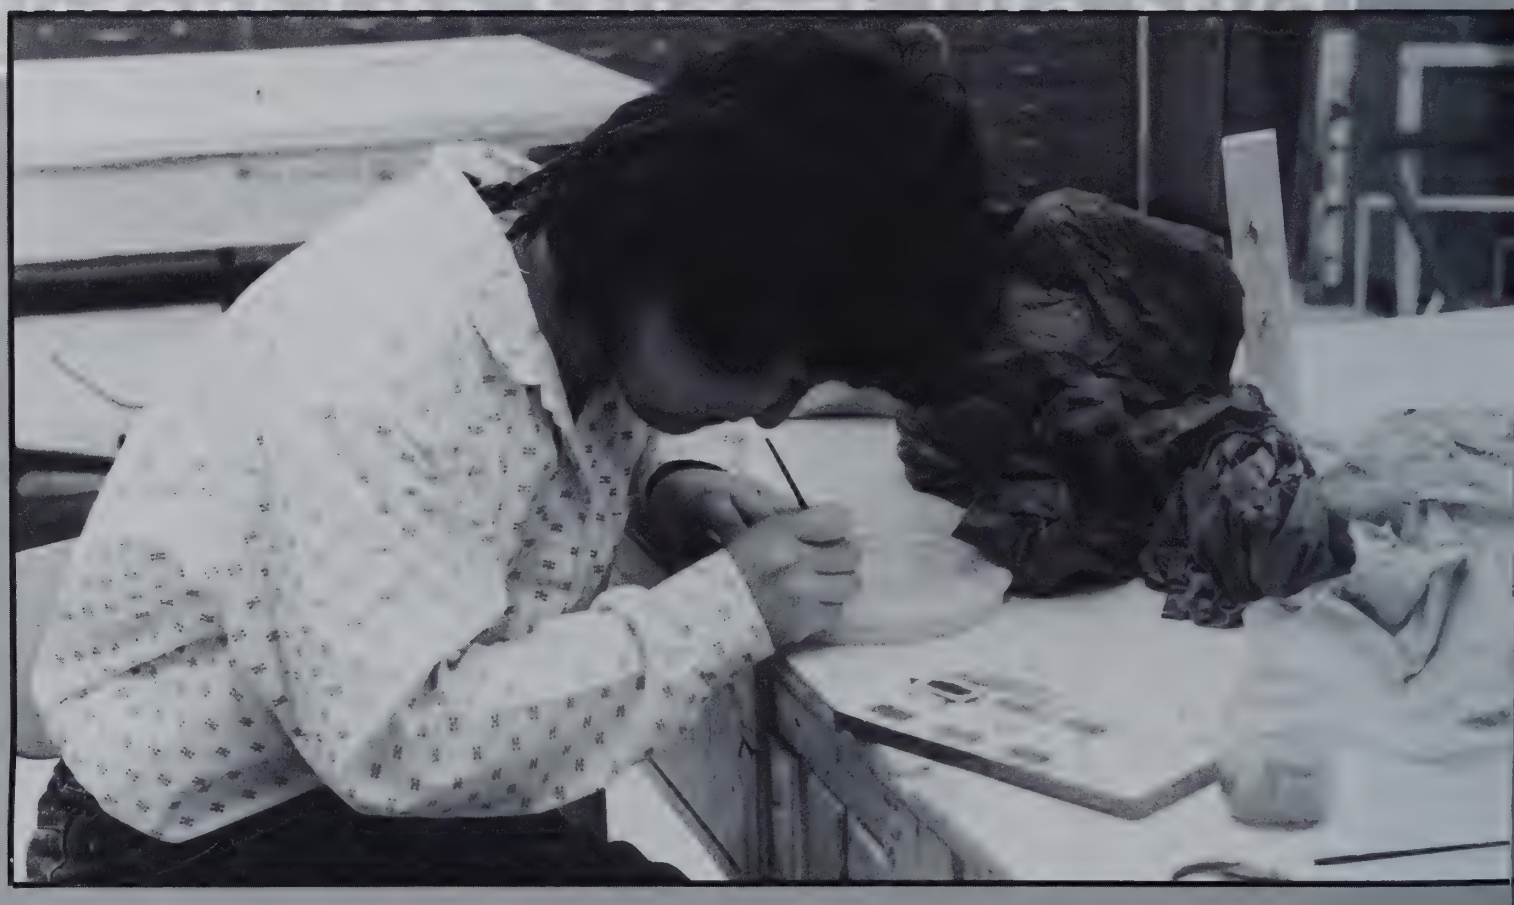
Dirk, who was in German Club and on the golf team, liked the school spirit but not the lunches at DHS. About his stay he said, "I would like to thank my host family . . . and DeKalb High School for giving me the opportunity to have a great year in the U.S. I also would like to thank all my friends here for helping to make this year as good as it was."

Lars Schlichting joined the French Club, in addition to being active in band and show choir. He found Americans to be more open and friendly but less interested in politics than Germans. About his stay, Lars said, "I really had a good time here. People accepted me, were interested in talking with me and I found a lot of friends. I learned a lot about this country and the Americans and I hope that some people learned something from me. Being an exchange student is a great experience."

Thomas Kock, a talented artist, spent his ten month visit with the Rick James family. From a suburb of Copenhagen, Denmark, Thomas took part in the French Club, Ski Club, and tennis. He also was "not too fond" of the school lunches.

"I would like to thank all my friends here at the high school for being so great and showing me how to have a good time the American way. It has been a memorable year and I will never forget it," said Thomas.

Hiroshima, Japan, is home to Yoko Nakamoto, who spent eleven months in the U.S., staying with the Waterson family. Yoko found American schools to be quite different from those in Japan. She found it fun to enjoy school and go to games and cheer. She belonged to SADD and played basketball here and learned to like pizza, M & M Peanuts, hamburgers, cookies, and macaroni and cheese, but not the school lunches.



An exchange student all the way from Hiroshima, Japan, where she served as a guide in the Peace Park is Yoko Nakamoto, above.

Jumping right in to activities at DHS is Thomas Kock, above, who was 9-3 in varsity tennis doubles competition.

It seemed a natural that Dirk Husemann would be a member of the German Club. At a meeting, he turns and smiles at us (upper left).

Is he checking out his shoes? No, Lars Schlichting is just taking part in the slap dance contest at the Foreign Language Banquet.

The cards and gift department at Keltsch Drug Store must change displays for each season and holiday, so Chris Mason (right) keeps busy.

JOBS —

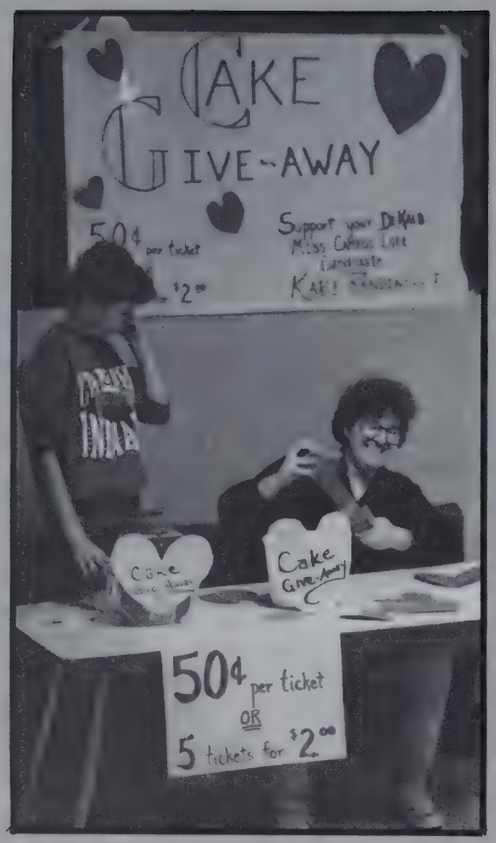
Part-Time Jobs Mean Extra Cash

When the 3:30 bell rings, many students don't go home and relax for a while before doing their homework. The next step in their day usually takes them to their place of employment, whether it be a department store, a restaurant, a construction site, or a factory. Others work as carry-outs at grocery stores, baby sitters, gas jockeys, or farmer's helpers.

Why? The three major reasons for this work are to earn cash for spending money, automotive expenses, and saving for future needs such as college.

Students under the age of 18 must have a work permit, which are obtained from the central office of DeKalb Central. The hours during which a full-time student may work are limited. For instance, they may not work past 10 on weeknights and midnight on weekends.

Cruising down Seventh Street, one will pass many places where DHS students work on evenings and weekends.



Campus Life activities occupy some spare time of these Barons as Kevin Gordon and Julia Gorrell sell tickets for the Miss Campus Life contest.

SPARE TIME —

How To Fill Those Empty Hours

Barons find many different dimensions for spending their spare time. Other than doing their homework, many people have part-time jobs which take up most, if not all, of their spare time. The people who don't go to work or do their homework are quite likely to be found cruising, practicing for school extracurricular activities, taking a nap at home, or just spending time with friends.

Some students spent their spare time in various non-school-related athletic activities, such as playing hockey, swimming, roller skating, bowling, or playing basketball at the Y.

For those students interested in the latest sounds, there was always the faithful stereo to listen to or MTV to watch and sometimes the action of concents at the Coliseum.

Still others spent time with their cars, whether it's fixing them to run right or giving them a good wash and wax job.

BARON REVUE —

Variety Show Produces Fun

The annual student variety show at DHS is called the Baron Revue. The show originated in 1984. The idea was brought from Winamac High School by Mr. Karkosky. The success at DHS is equally as great as the Warrior's success with the idea.

A typical variety show, the Baron Revue included a wide range of numbers. One category, and a very popular one, was the copying of various commercials. In addition to the Michelin Tire and Oscar Meyer commercials pictured here, there were also take-offs on commercials for the Clapper (a device for turning lights on and off) and two Volkswagen ads in which the engineers showed their confidence in their product.

There were several sketches based on popular game shows. In The Dating Game, three unique young ladies tried to get the attention of a young man, who eventually decided to date the Master of Ceremonies instead. In The Wheel of Misfortune, only the contestant from Scandinavia could correctly guess "Swedisha Meeta-Ballsa." And the answers in The Trivia Hour were based upon a poll of 2,000 teenagers. Results? The capital of Wisconsin is Wisconsin City.

On a more serious note, some musical talent was displayed by Amy Boger and Tanessa Burnett in their vocal solos, by Jeff Funk in his piano solo, and Gregg Lockwood, as he played his drum solo blind-folded.

There were two saxophone quartets and one flute trio, and the jazz band presented three numbers.

The Brigadiers showed their talents in several numbers, backed by the music of the pep band.

A popular commerical involves babies and Michelin Tires. Here, Dusty Ousley and Tim Petre crawl for the security of their tire.

SPRING BREAK —

Getting Away From Everything

Spring Break is a time for the students to get away from the everyday school routine and have a great time and be themselves. Spring Break was longer than usual in 1988 — from April 1 through April 10. This gave even more of us a chance to go to different places with friends and family. Others stayed around home and found unique ways to have fun with friends.

Youth for Christ (Campus Life) took its annual trip to Florida providing warmth, sunshine, and waves for all students interested. Others visited friends and relatives stretching all across the United States.

Then for the people who stayed home, although the weather at the start of break was not very good, the latter part of the week gave them a chance to work on their tans so that their friends who had gone to warmer climates wouldn't have that much of an advantage over them.

Some "lucky" students had their Spring Break planned for them with such activities as helping out with spring cleaning and doing yard work. Others got to stay home and take care of younger brothers and sisters. Still others spent part of their time trying to catch up on their school work since they had been grounded because grade cards were issued just before break started.

OKLAHOMA —

Sell-out Show Thrills Audiences

Oklahoma, O.K. . . . It was more than just O.K. For two evenings in April, the auditorium stage was transformed into Indian Territory (now Oklahoma) just after the turn of the century. "Oklahoma" was a sell-out, with extra chairs being set up on Saturday night.

The musical was directed by Shelley and Kent Johnson with choreography by Mary Kay Perkins. The student director Tonya Miller and stage manager Janell McMaken also helped on the popular production.

The audience went home humming some of the better known songs such as "Oh, What a Beautiful Mornin'," "People Will Say We're in Love," and, of course, "Oklahoma." The pit band was directed by Mr. Richard Karkosky.

The telling of the story of two young people who encounter several set-backs on the road to true love and marriage took many weeks of practice to perfect, but everything took shape in that critical final week and the audiences were thrilled.

"People Will Say We're In Love" is on the minds of Curly (Dirk McKown) and Laurey (Holly Morton).

Not wanting him to take Laurey to the box social, Curly tries to influence "Pore Jud" Fry (Steve Crawford) to use his gun.

PROM —

'In My Dreams' Sets Theme

The Grand March gave each couple a chance at the spotlight. Above, Susie Lepley and Dirk McKown are introduced.

In My Dreams was the theme of the Junior-Senior Prom, held in the Commons of the DeKalb Middle School on Saturday, May 7. The theme, from a popular song recorded by REO Speedwagon, was appropriate for the dream-like atmosphere created by the decorating committee using pastel colors, balloons, and streamers. They also arranged for the weather to be warm and pleasant.

After getting more dressed up than they'd ever been in their lives, most couples started the evening by going out for a special dinner, many of them going to one Ft. Wayne restaurant or another. Then came the dance itself.

After registering and receiving table assignments, the couples waited for the Grand March, for which they were called one section at a time. Couples were introduced by Mr. Fites and Mr. Branneman.

Music for the evening was provided by the sound system "Music King" out of Toledo, Ohio. After a period of dancing, the royal court was introduced. It included Laura Ritchie and Cy Dillinger, Tracy Smith and Hashem Jaderanipour, Angie Kobiela and Gregg Lockwood, and Lynda Cobbs and Bruce Fuhrer. The King and Queen were Chris Mason and David Spade.

Following the Prom, various after-prom activities included bowling and movies and several private parties.

The special Grand March conducted by "Music King" gave prom-goers a chance for a different type of dance.

Being accompanied on the grand piano donated by the Music Association, the Chorale Choir sings under the direction of Mrs. Shelley Johnson.

FINE ARTS —

Music, Art Talent Displayed

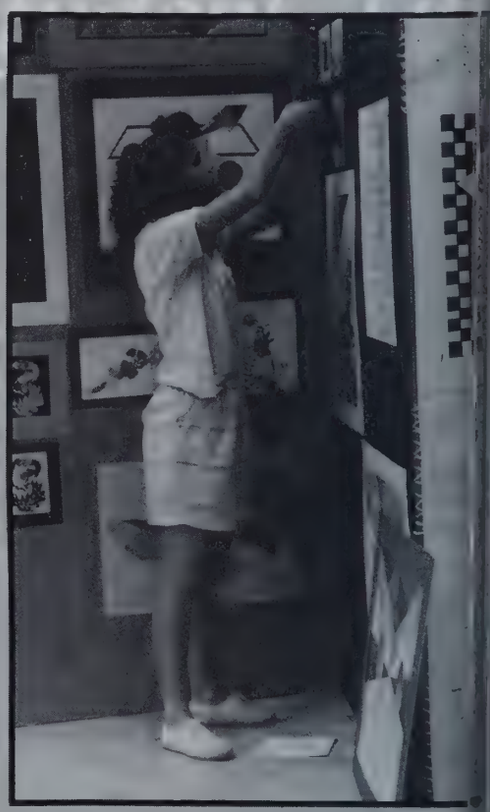
The arts are alive and well at DHS. The Fine Arts Festival on May 13-15 gave ample proof of that. The traditional display in the gym was set up during the day on Thursday, May 12. Included were examples of the work of art, woods, child development, and graphic arts students. Everyone selected their very best products and proudly put them on exhibit.

On Friday, fifth graders from Auburn saw, in addition to the display, demonstrations of pottery making and caricature drawing. The exhibit was open to the public on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoon to correspond with the concerts being put on by the music department.

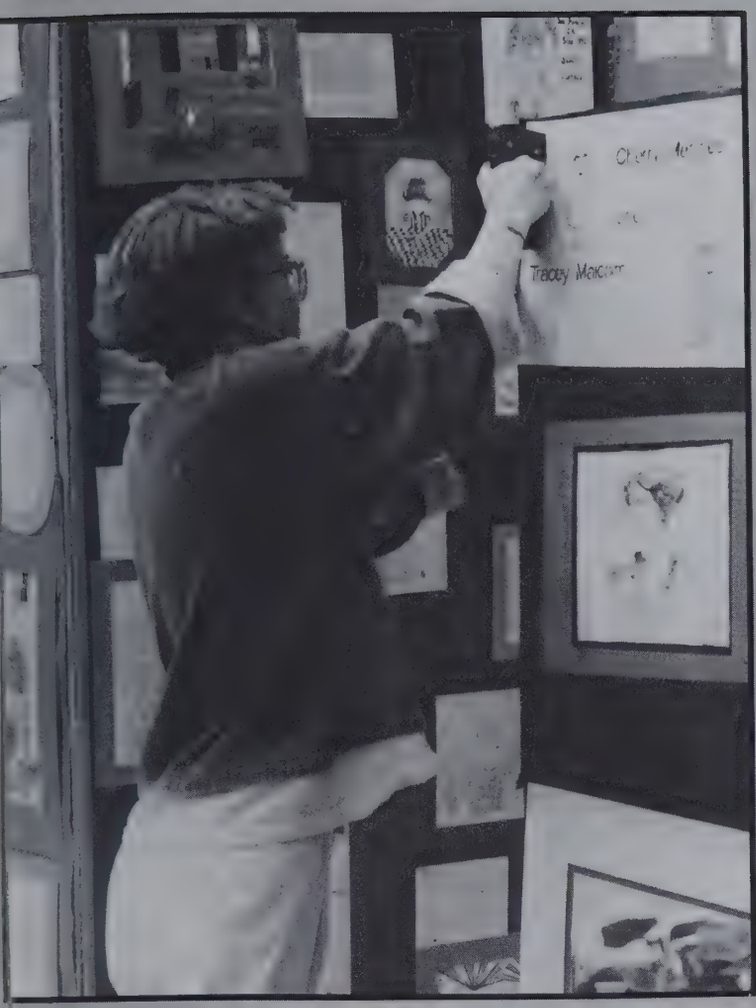
On Friday evening, the choir students exhibited their talents in a concert of mainly serious music. All three choirs performed, in addition to several solo numbers being presented.

Saturday evening was a time for jazz, with the Jazz Annex and Jazz Band entertaining the crowd. Guest soloist with the Jazz Band was Dan Lilly playing "Ice Castles" and "Truly."

The Sunday concert on May 15 gave the Concert and Symphonic bands a chance to shine. Guest soloist was Mrs. Sandra Franks, playing "Rhapsody in Blue" on the new grand piano which was dedicated during the concert.

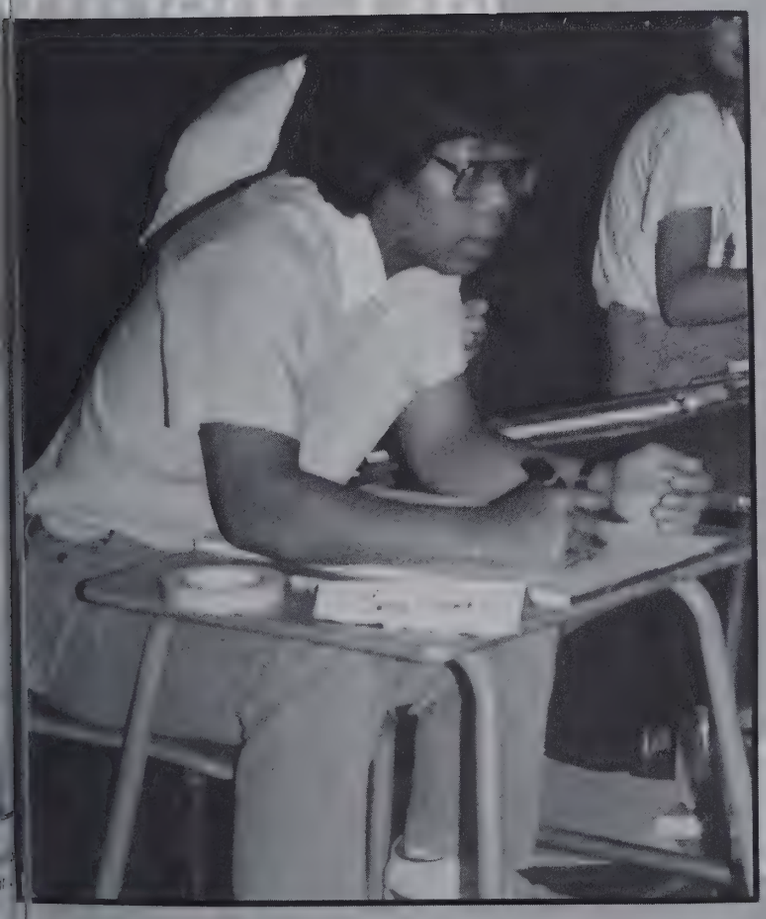


Getting everything arranged so the display will lo just right is a challenge for Art II student Li Holmes, above.



To make sure that she and Cherry Menges will get credit for their work, Tracey Malcolm puts up a sign.

Displays from other classes were included in the art show. Below is Greg Brown with his woods project.



Fifth graders toured the show Friday and had their caricatures drawn by students like Tung Somkit, left.

Guest soloist for the Saturday Jazz Concert was Dan Lilly, above, during the performance of "Ice Castles."

Andy Miller seems very pleased as he accepts the 15th annual Dana Corporation Scholarship from Mr. Skip Sullivan. It is a 4 year scholarship.

Steve Crawford is congratulated by Mrs. Shelley Johnson as she prepares to give him the Dramatic Arts Scholarship.

AWARDS DAY —

Seniors Reap Big Rewards

May 18 was the date and the auditorium was the place for naming and honoring the many seniors, listed elsewhere on these pages, who had won scholarships and awards. Juniors, seniors, faculty, and family members were present to see the awards for good citizenship, scholarship, and athletics being handed out. Those who received the awards were happy that they had taken the time and care to fill out the various applications. Freshmen and sophomores listened to the ceremonies in their classrooms.

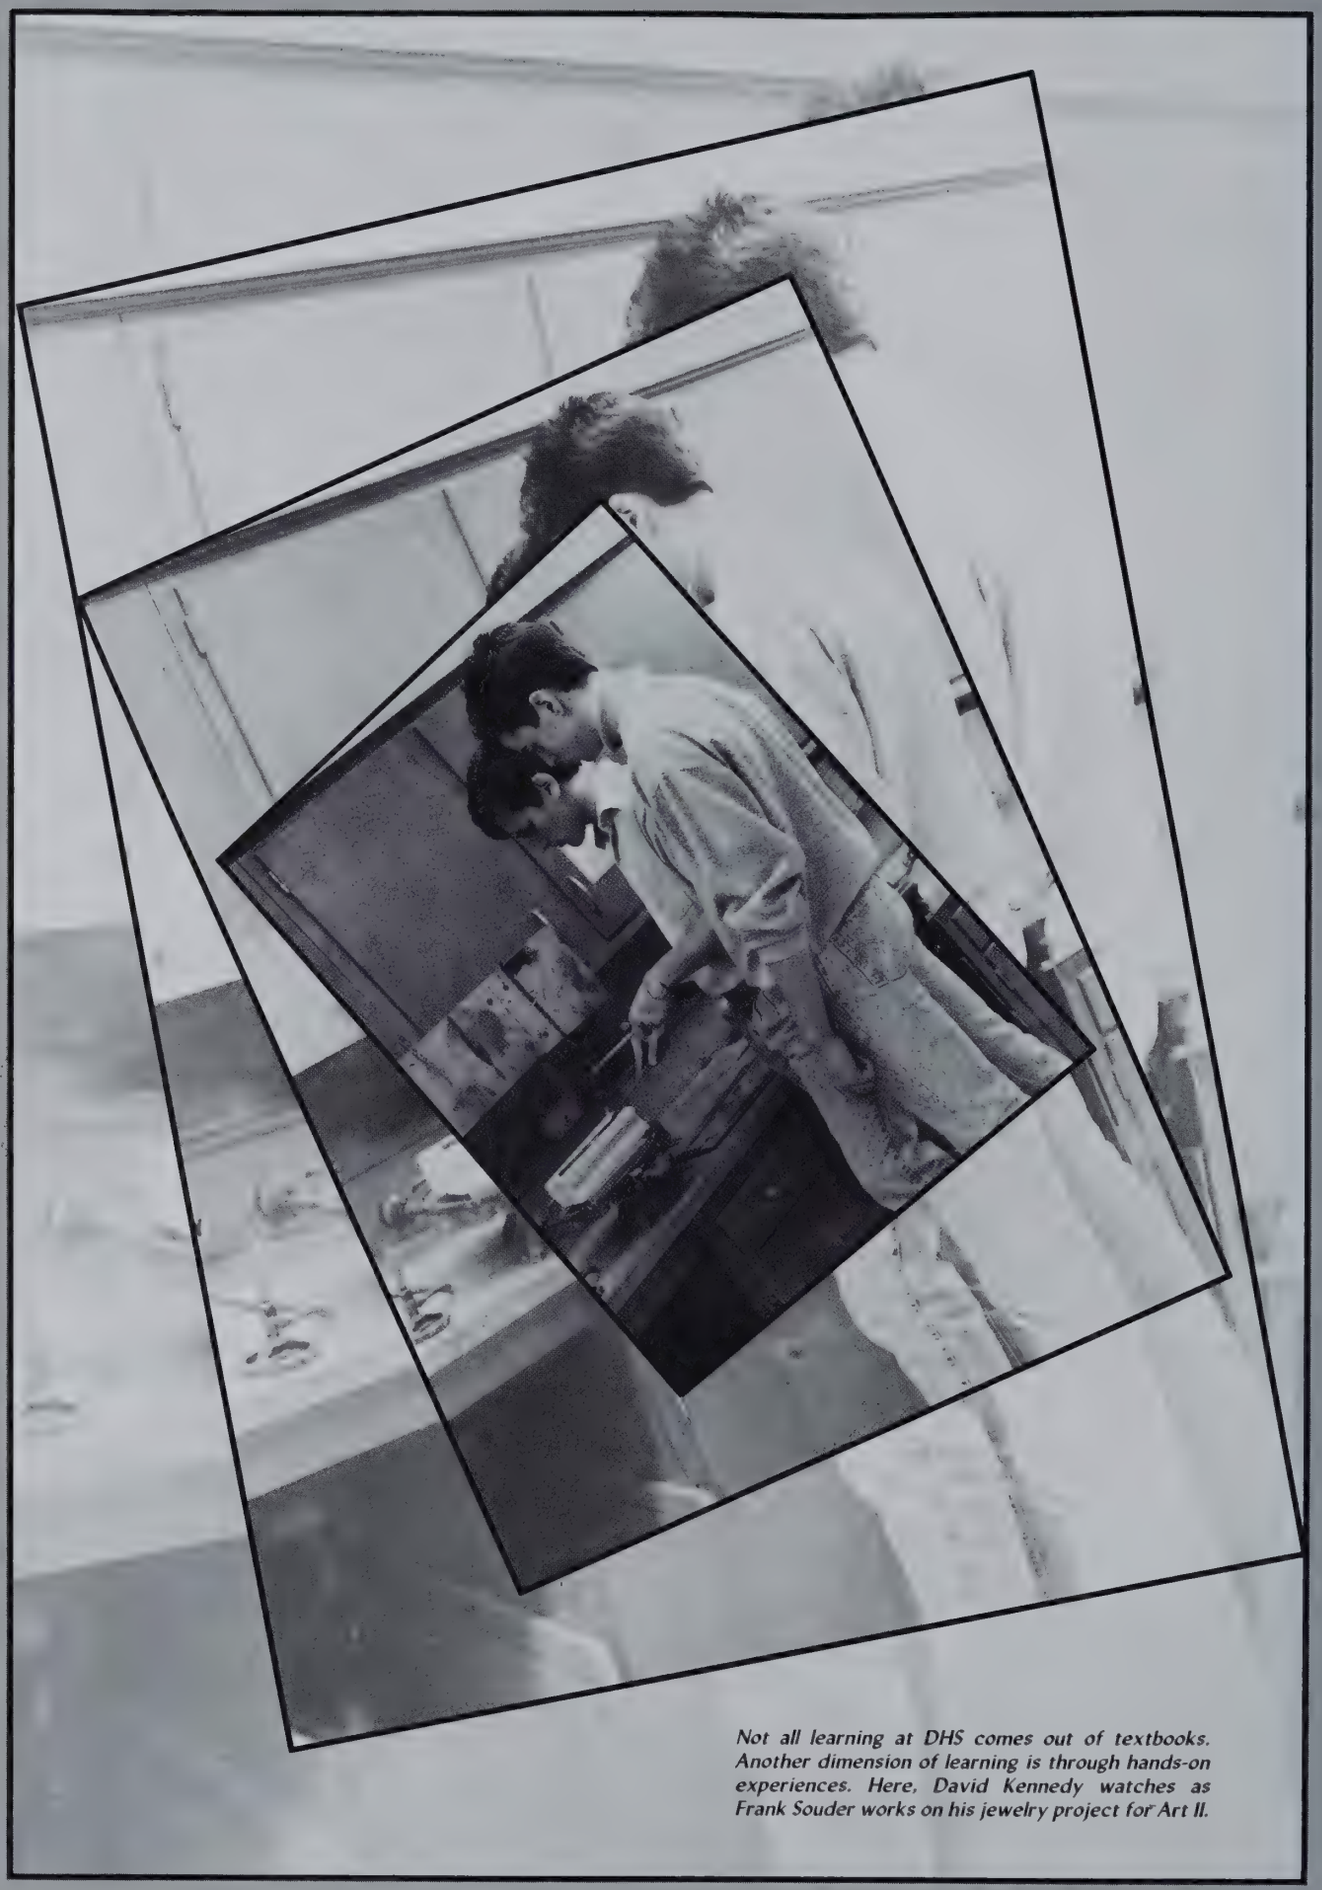
GRADUATION

224 Seniors Graduate Outside

Graduation involved two new dimensions for the twenty-first class at DHS. The most obvious change from previous years was that it was held out-of-doors on the football field, avoiding the hot gym. Mother nature cooperated by having no rain, and a steady breeze made the 90 degree temperature a little more bearable, but presented some problems to the graduates with keeping their hats in place.

The second change was the first-time awarding of the new Academic Honors Diploma. Eleven members of the class of '88 qualified by having 47 credits in certain specified classes and a GPA of no less than a B.

Speakers were Jennifer Michael, Invocation; Renee Leffel, Welcome; Andy Miller, Intention; Mark Gurtner, Farewell; and Chris Franks, Benediction. Principal Fites presented the class, and diplomas were presented by members of the Board of Education, assisted by Superintendant Watson.



Not all learning at DHS comes out of textbooks. Another dimension of learning is through hands-on experiences. Here, David Kennedy watches as Frank Souder works on his jewelry project for Art II.

BANDS REQUIRE TALENT, DEDICATION

Talent, dedication, success — these words and more are the keys to the Baron Brigade's fall season. In addition to their appearances at all home football games, they achieved recognition in various field and parade competitions.

Among their awards in parades was their first place finish at the Bluffton Street Fair Parade; First Place in Class B and Sweepstakes Award in the DeKalb County Fair Parade; and First Place with Best Marching unit, best music and best effect in the Decatur Calithumpian Parade.

The Brigade also competed in a number of field competitions. At the Banks of the Wabash Invitational they received first place in Class AAA including Best Marching, Best Music and Best General Effect. At the East Noble Band-o-Rama, they received fourth place. The ISSMA District, where they competed in Class B, saw the band place fourth among the Division I winners and were named as having the best General Effect. The ISSMA Regional earned them another Division I ranking with a sixth place finish and recognition for Best Music.

The Brigade also took part in the Marching Bands of America competition. At the Mid-West Regional they received a twelfth place ranking, and at the Grand Nationals held at the Pontiac Silver Dome, where their goal was to place among the top 25 bands, they were ranked twenty-third.

As cold weather approached, basketball season moved band activities inside. Many Brigade members changed into their Pep Band shirts and played at the home basketball games and at the NEIAC tourney in the Coliseum. Although the pep band was moved to the upper balcony for the home games, they were still able to add much spirit and noise to the atmosphere of competition of Indiana's favorite indoor sport.

Keeping in step and in line, the Baron Brigade takes part in the Saturday parade at the Fair. They took home the Sweepstakes trophy.

CONCERT SEASON KEEPS BANDS BUSY

After the marching season was over, band students turned their attention indoors to prepare for the concert season. Although combined for the Baron Brigade, they were in two separate bands for the rest of the year.

The Concert Band met during fourth hour and the Symphonic Band practiced during fifth hour. Membership in the Symphonic Band was by audition, and the music it played was of a more challenging nature. Membership in the Jazz Band was also by audition, and their practice time was after school hours.

All three bands took part in the Christmas Concert and the Pops Concert. The Pops Concert was held in the Commons and pizza was served to the audience. The two big bands gave their spring concert on May 15.

The bands combined to attend the Music Carousel Festival in Ohio on the weekend of May 21, and they also visited King's Island on Saturday.

In competition, all three bands got First Division ratings in the ISSMA contests. In addition, many soloists and ensembles entered the district competition, with 27 rating first, 6 rating second, and 1 rating third. Eight solos and 3 ensembles advanced to state.

While Mr. Richard Karkosky directed the Symphonic Band, he was assisted by Mr. Richard Norris and Mr. Kevin Campbell on the Concert Band.

The band's Christmas Concert involved a unique winter-like setting to provide the mood. Below, the Symphonic Band performs a number.

TIME, TALENT PAY REWARDS

The choral department includes two choirs that are the primary performing choirs: the Show Choir and the Jazz Choir, also known as the Jazz Annex.

The Show Choir met one hour a day during school hours, but many hours after school and in the evening were also spent perfecting the music and working out the choreography so that their performances would be show stoppers. The Jazz Choir members spent even more time outside of regular school hours on their presentations.

It was a busy year for the Show Choir, starting in the fall with contests at various fairs, including Bluffton and DeKalb, where they received a first place each time. They also appeared at the Bellmont Festival. They received the Best Combo Award at the Chesterton Festival and at Kankakee, where they ranked fourth over all.

Three other contests the Show Choir entered were the Showstoppers Invitational (seventh place), Mt. Zion (second runner-up), and Ohio Northern University (third place and Best Combo Award). They also received a first division ranking in Group I in the ISSMA contest.

Show Choir performed a wide range of music from very serious to light and contemporary music at many outside shows in the community in addition to three concerts at the school.

The Jazz Choir also received a first division ranking in Group I in the ISSMA contest. They also took part in the IPFW Jazz Festival and presented many performances in the community.

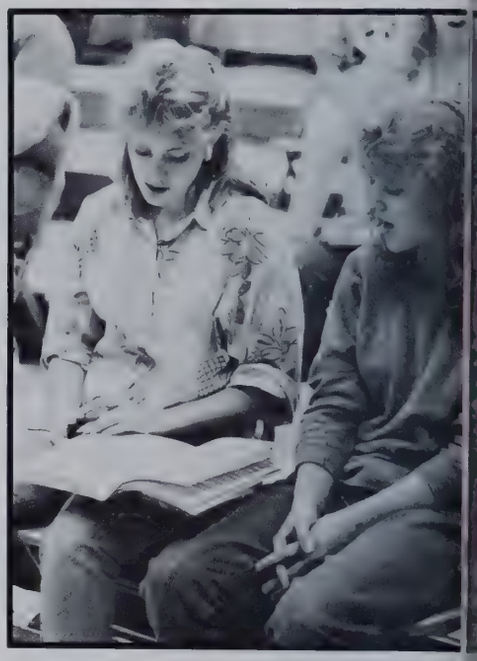
CHOIRS EXPERIENCE WORK AND FUN

The Chorale Choir and the Girls' Choir, although not as active as the other singing groups, still put in a full year of work. Early in the year, most of the time was spent in voice training and learning the basics. They started preparing for their first concert, the Christmas concert, Santa's Frosty Follies, which was presented by the entire choral department.

Their attention then turned toward competition as they prepared for the ISSMA contests. For their first year of competing in Group I, the Chorale Choir received a second place, missing first by just one point. The Girls' Choir took part in two contests, placing first in both the show choir contest and the regular ISSMA organizational competition.

Both choirs ended the year by performing in the Spring Concert, held during the Fine Arts Festival, and the Pops Concert, featuring the entire choral department. Both choirs also performed at the Heimach Center in Auburn.

Many choir students also took part in the solo and ensemble contest. There were 32 soloists who advanced to state. And five different ensembles placed first at district and first at state: the Madrigal Choir, Boys Barbershop, Girls Barbershop and two girls trios.



The Chorale Choir prepares a new song for th next concert as C.J. Stoops and Amanda Dibl follow the music.

GIRLS CHOIR MEMBERS: Lori Beaty, Michelle Browand, Jenny Byrum, Colette Carthen, Jode Daub, Esther Duke, Anita Farmer, Stacey Groff, Traci Hampton, Christine Hoffman, Beth Makovicka, Tonya Miller, Trina Miser, Jodie Moore, Debra Nusbaum, Jessica Shetley, Traci Surber, Amy Waddell, Nancy Wellman. Instrumentalist Bd Steinman.

Singing the song that won them a first place at state are the freshman trio of Sarah Schmidt, Nicole Farrington, and Joy Kroemer.

For its concert during the Fine Arts Festival, the Chorale Choir featured several soloists. Above, Greg Boyles takes his turn.

Members of the Girls' Choir gather around Mrs. Johnson at the piano at they work on a song that they seem to be enjoying.

LOWER SOUTH HALL HOUSES CREATIVITY

Both the Art and Home Economics Departments call the lower south hall "home." Room 116, where the Art Department is housed, is the scene of a lot of creative work during each day. Classes available ranged from Basic Art for special education students to Ceramics and Drawing and Painting IV.

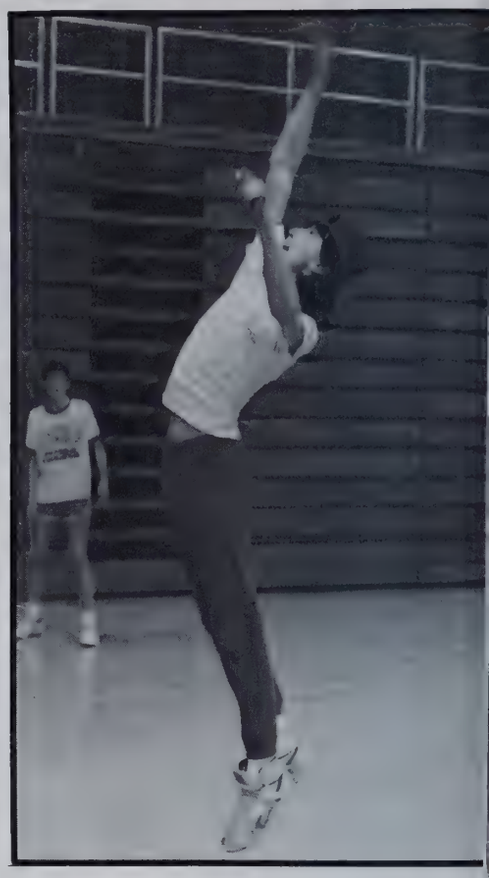
Art students and Drawing and Painting classes went on their traditional all-day trip to the Fair to record their impressions of the fun-filled atmosphere in watercolor. Their impressions of such things as the games of chance and the rides were later posted for everyone else to see and enjoy.

In mid-May the Art Show gave all art students a chance to display the results of the year's labors for the public to see and appreciate. While Mrs. Nagel was on a leave of absence for the first nine weeks, her classes were taught by Mrs. Julia Page.

Across the hall from the art room is the Home Ec Department, staffed by Mrs. Betty Stomm. The major focus of the classes was to provide students with skills and attitudes to help in their future lives. Child Development, Family Relations, Foods, and Housing were the main offerings. One semester of clothing was also taught.

Various guest speakers also helped the students gain an even broader understanding of such things as dating and sibling rivalry.

Physical fitness is important for everyone, so the girls' phys ed classes spent time in the weight room, including Anna Holben, above.

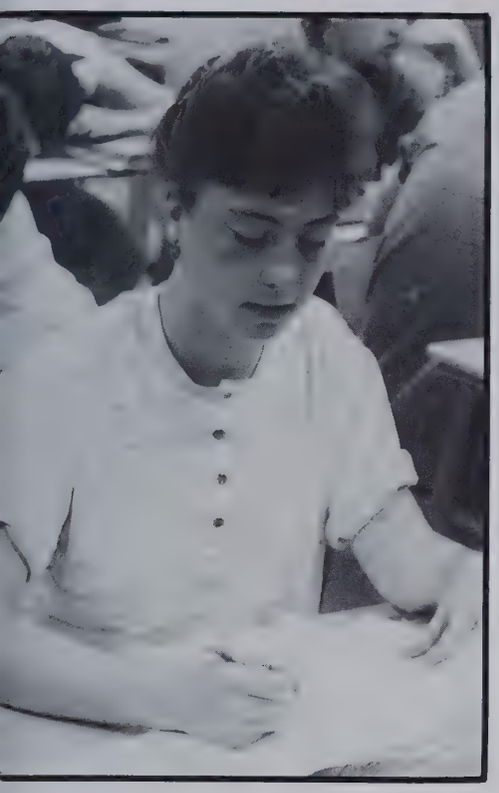


He may never make the final four in the NCAA volleyball tournament, but Ricky Short really does seem to be concentrating on the ball.

"Now let's see if I can hit this ball back over the net," might be the thought of Matt Garman as he enjoys the spring weather outside.

Deborah Klein is at the front of the line as sophomore girls practice archery, which was a new experience for most of them.

Using part of her homeroom period to get her health assignment finished, Anne Roberts hopes to get the study sheet completed.



HEALTHY MINDS IN HEALTHY BODIES

Three classes that are required of all underclassmen are health and driver ed for freshmen and physical education for sophomores. An elective taught within the same department and available for all but freshmen is Quest.

The goal of the Quest class is to improve the quality of family life and promote positive mental health. In addition to the regular class work and discussion, many guest speakers visited the class. They discussed such things as drug and alcohol abuse, adoption, family violence and child abuse.

The one-semester health classes discussed and studied various topics, especially those of special interest to teenagers. Also, a special speaker informed the classes about the value of organ donations.

Drivers ed is a one semester book class that teaches students the importance of defensive driving. The handicapped students also received actual driving instruction.

The year-long phys ed class for sophomores included various activities designed to promote physical fitness. Separate classes were held for boys and girls. Depending on the weather, classes were held either inside or outside. The girls did a special unit on aerobics. Other activities included soccer, badminton, one-wall racquetball, and speedball.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS GIVES HANDS-ON EXPERIENCE

Industrial Arts classes form one portion of the Practical Arts Department. These classes provide those students who enjoy doing things with their hands a chance to earn credit while improving their abilities. Many of the skills learned in Industrial Arts classes can be used in the future both in the home and on the job.

Three years of woods classes were taught. Students in those classes developed the skills necessary to operate the power tools and other equipment necessary to build such things as various pieces of furniture. One class project was building a mail box for the Waterloo Elementary School. One ambitious student built a roll-top desk for herself.

In the area of electricity, there were four classes taught. In addition to learning all about such things as wiring and printed circuits, the electricity students learned to repair various household appliances such as television sets.

During the three years of Metals class, the students learned all aspects of sheet metal and foundry work. All kinds of projects were produced, including the ever-popular tool box.

Drafting is also part of the Industrial Arts Department. Three years of Drafting in addition to Architectural Drafting were taught, helping students learn how to draw up plans and prepare drawings that could be used in construction and industry.

The final two Industrial Arts classes, Basic Graphics and Power Mechanics, were taught as foundation courses for students planning later to take the vocational classes in those same areas.

GETTING READY FOR THE WORLD OF WORK

Vocational Arts is the second portion of the Practical Arts Department. As its title implies, the subjects in this department are especially designed to provide those who take them with experience that might eventually help them in the world of work. These classes were taught mainly as labs and lasted for two or three hours each, with two ag classes being the exception.

The agriculture classes are designed to prepare tomorrow's farmers. There were two levels of classes geared primarily at book study and one class — Ag Mechanics — where students got valuable hands-on experience. The class completely rebuilt a bulldozer and they also rebuilt a farm wagon. The farmer today needs a wide variety of skills, and this class tried to equip the students as well as possible.

The Graphic Arts Lab helped students learn all aspects of off-set printing. Although the equipment was rapidly aging, the class still managed to produce much of the printed material needed by the school district, such as tickets and sports programs.

The Building Trades class again built a complete house. This time it had three bedrooms, two baths, a cedar and aluminum exterior, and was located on Duesenberg Drive in Auburn.

The Auto Mechanics Lab was a very popular class because cars are dear to the hearts of most teenages and many have cars or trucks that are in less than prime working order. The students learned to do everything from performing routine maintenance to rebuilding an entire engine.

As one can see, the DHS Vocational Arts Department does its best to prepare its students for the future.

WE SPEAK IN MANY TONGUES

The fine art of communication is a major concern of the two departments which deal with the language arts: English and Foreign Language.

Students in Indiana are now required to take four years of English, so a wide range of courses is offered by the English Department to help students learn how to be more effective communicators as speakers, readers, writers, and listeners.

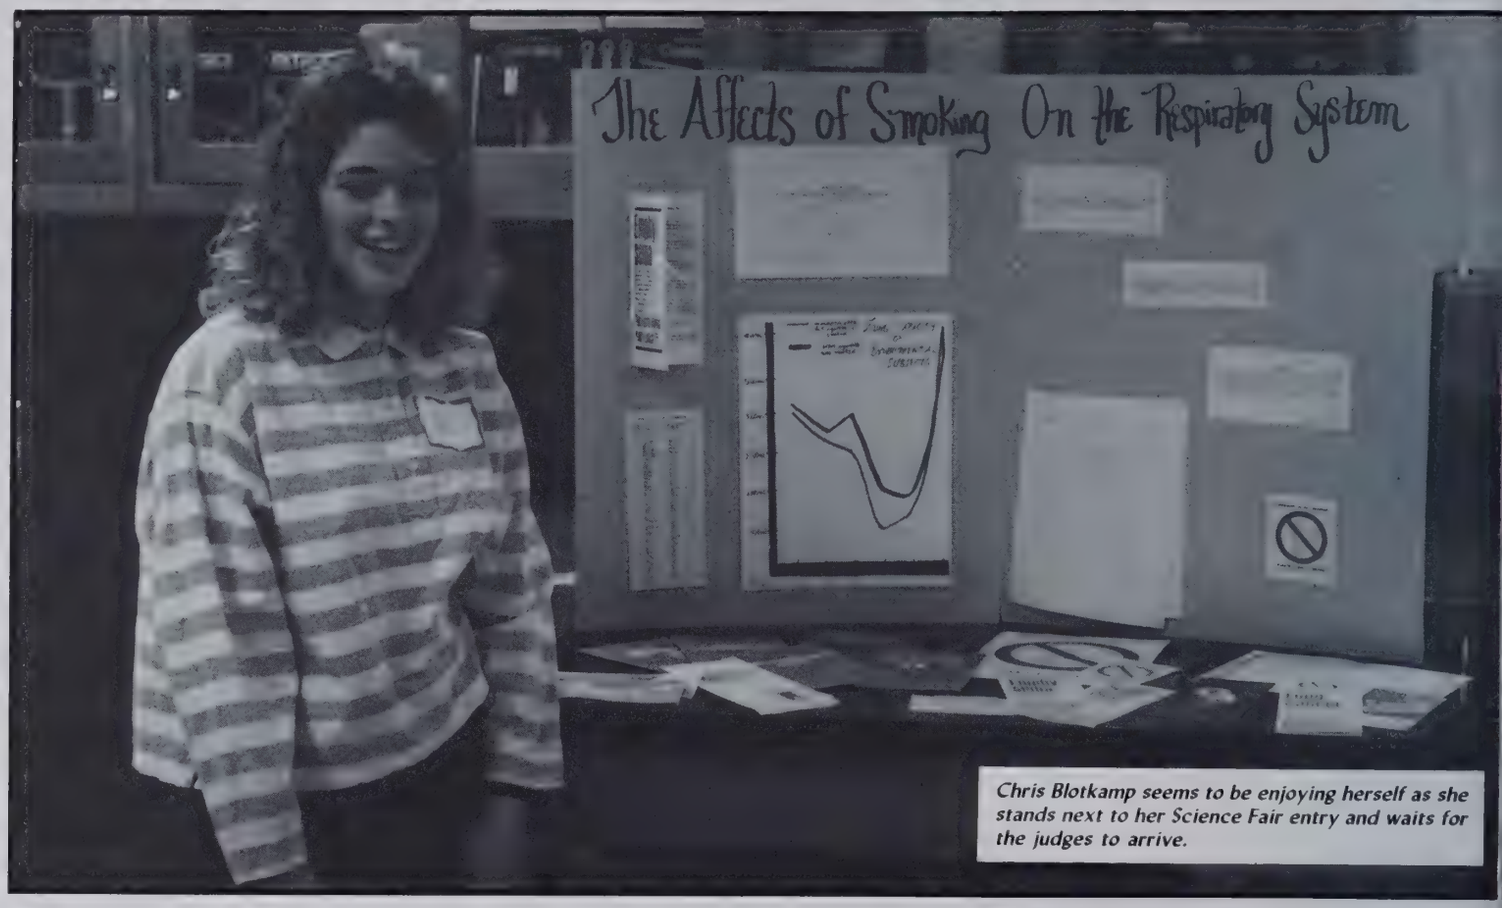
The Drama class attended a presentation of "Amadeus" at Fort Wayne's Embassy Theater and visited backstage afterwards. And Mrs. Judy Klein from International Business College gave a program about listening skills to several classes.

Besides English, three foreign languages were also taught: French, German, and Spanish. A highlight for students of these languages was taking part in the Foreign Language Festival at IPFW.

Among the French students who placed at the Festival were Rachelle Temple, Tracy Smith, Missy Lockwood, and Kevin Gordon.

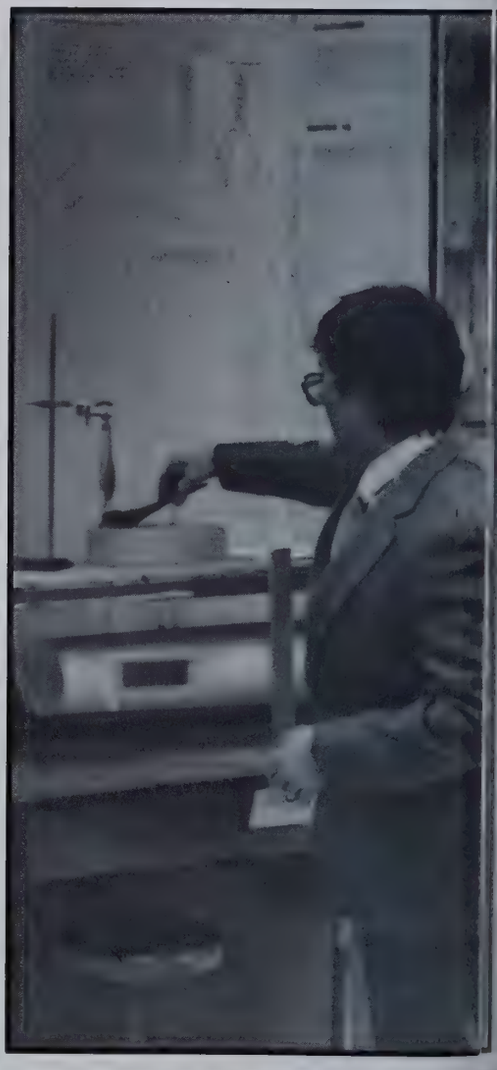
Those German students who received ribbons included Laurie Dendinger, Cal Bowers, Joel Gramling, Andy Miller, Ray Noragon, Tamyra Rynearson, Paul Rahe, Lara Shultz, Bob Hardy, and Brett Henderson.

Ribbon winners in the Spanish competition included Jill Waters, Jeff Christner, Renee Leffel, Josh Durst, Janell Havey, Stef Schlosser, Matt Disch, Scott Allison, Jeff Kessler, John Haney, Brad Woodcox, Jason Whittington, and Rex Rountree.



Chris Blotkamp seems to be enjoying herself as she stands next to her Science Fair entry and waits for the judges to arrive.

Taking a final look at his project is John Haney, who studied how various soils and fertilizers would stimulate the growth of grass.



Entered in the Engineering category, David Figgins adjusts his display. David constructed a wind tunnel and studied aircraft design.

Exactly what does a molecule look like? David Oster prepares to build a molecular model for his Chemistry class.

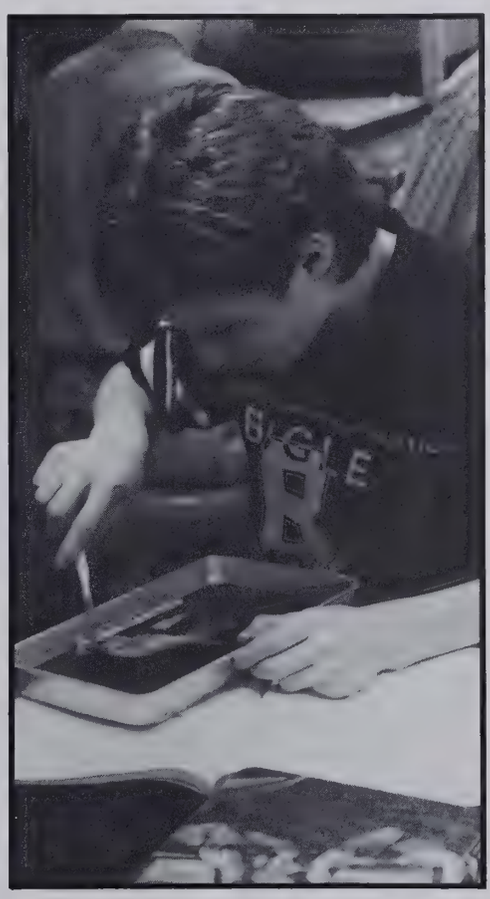
SCIENCE FAIR HIGHLIGHTS YEAR

Future Einsteins and Madame Curies can get a good broad background in the science disciplines taught at DHS. All students are required to take one of the Biology classes, either Academic, Standard, or Basic. The latter is a change of name from the former Life Science, a change made necessary to conform with the state curriculum. The former General Science was renamed Physical Science Basic for the same reason.

These name changes were not the major difference for the Science Department in 1987-88, however. For the first time, DHS hosted a local Science Fair. The competition attracted entries from 183 students ranging from grade one through grade twelve who competed in five divisions. Those who placed well enough locally advanced to the Regional Science Fair at Tri-State University.

Barons who placed in the Regional in the Senior Division were David Figgins, second place in Engineering; Angie Kelleher, second place in Earth Science; and Marsha Hart, fifth place in Zoology. Winning in the Junior Division were John Haney, second, and Karrie Miser, fourth, in Microbiology; Adam Jordan, third in Chemistry; Clayton Schnelker, second, and Chad Hine, third, in Physics; and Jenny Nobles, fourth in Earth Science.

Besides the classes mentioned previously, Physics, Chemistry I and II, and Earth Science were taught in 1987-88, but the Science Fair was definitely the new dimension added to the Science Department.



Do you enjoy catching it or eating it? Greg Camp is using his fish for cutting up purposes in his Academic Biology class.

All eyes are on the spectraphotometer as Katrina Baughman, Rich Drew, and Renee Smith try to measure the density of a colored water solution.

SOCIAL STUDIES MEANS FIELD TRIPS

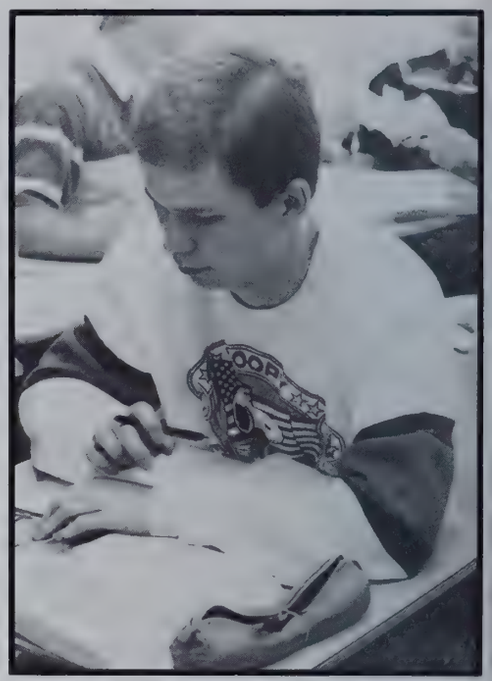
The offerings of the Social Studies Department are designed to assist students in understanding about society and their place in the chain of human events.

"Those who do not understand the mistakes of the past are doomed to repeat them." This quote explains, in part, why some consider the study of history to be important. In this area, DHS offered U.S. History on three levels and World History. While the former was mainly for juniors, the one-semester World History class could be taken by anyone starting in the sophomore year.

All seniors were required to take both government and economics. More than fifty of them got both subjects out of the way by taking them in summer school. Those who waited until this year to take the classes were treated to such "specials" as a field trip to observe the DeKalb Circuit and Superior Courts in operation. Some government students also attended the Rotary-sponsored World Affairs Conference at Wayne High School, where the topic was Central America. A few also attended a symposium at Valparaiso University dealing with elections.

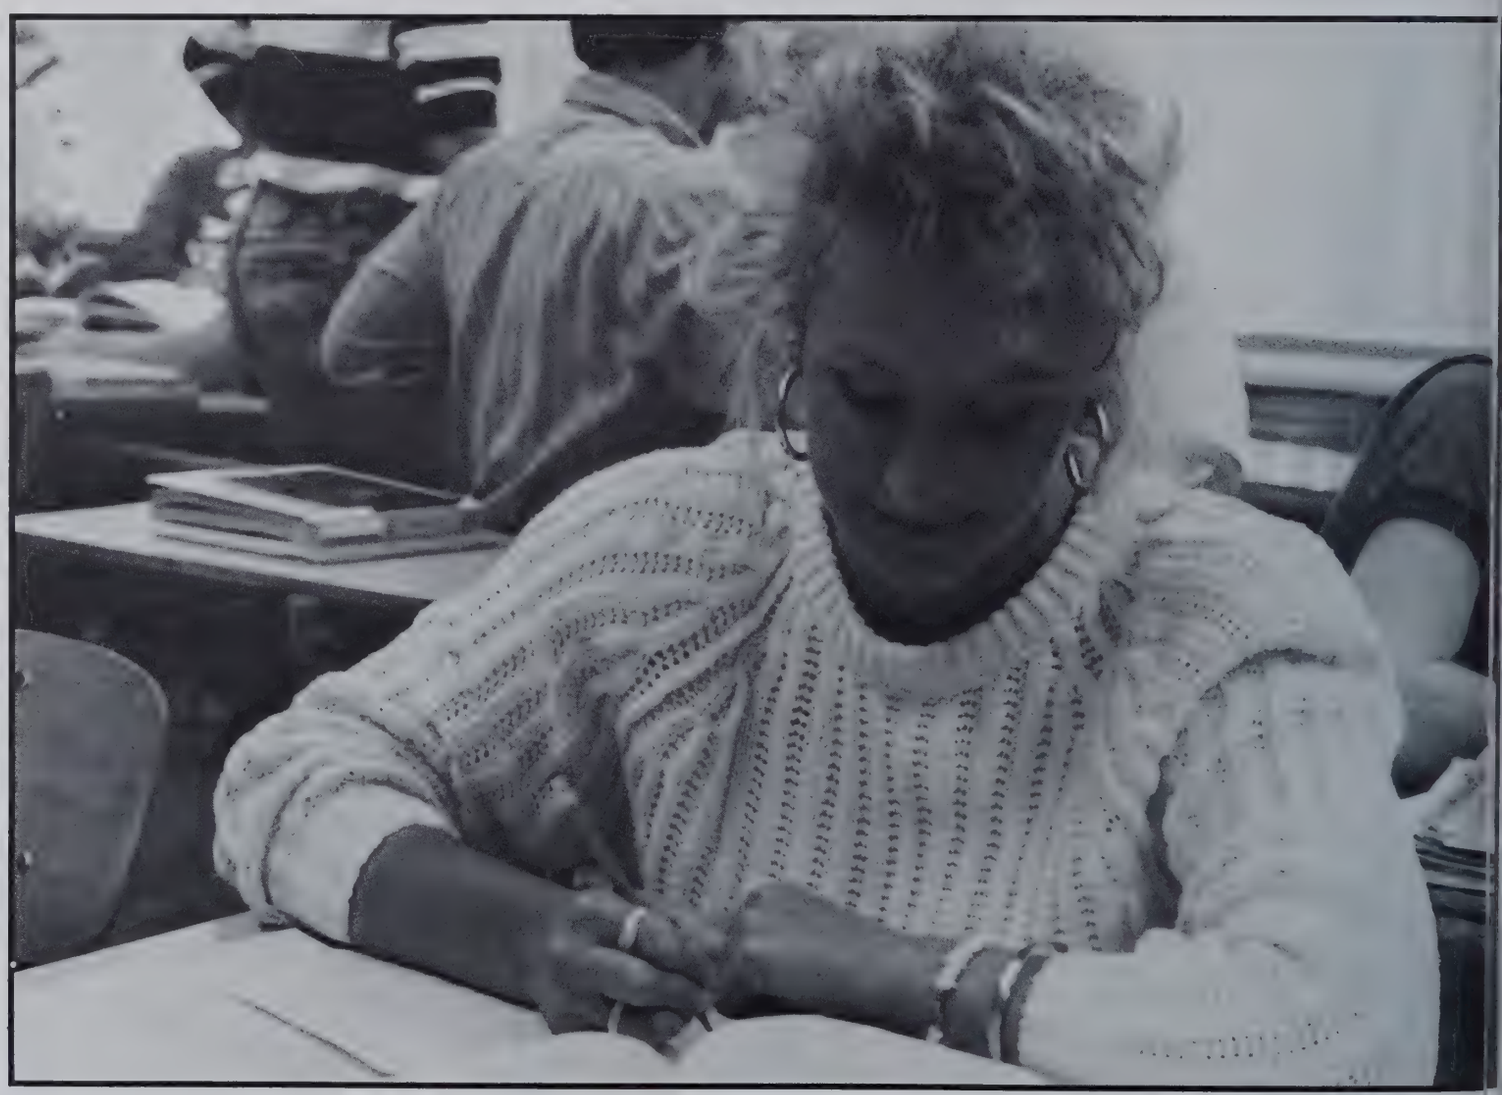
Economics students also were treated to several field trips. Some went to Rieke Corporation, others visited Renaissance Printing and Cooper Industrial Products, while still others toured the Auburn Foundry.

Advanced Psychology students got a chance to visit the State Training Center in Fort Wayne for their field trip.



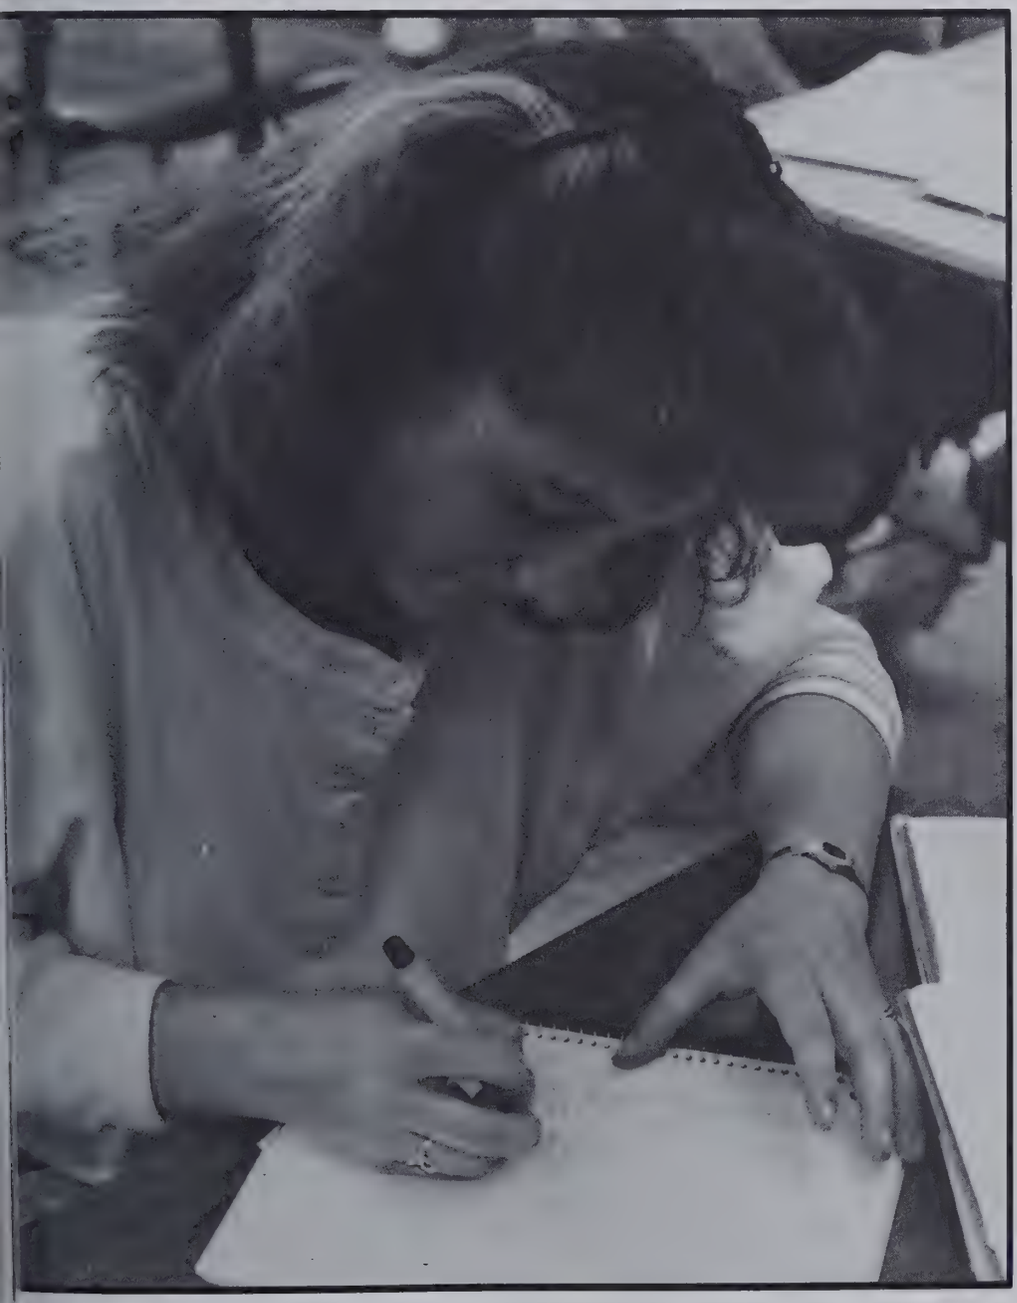
Although U.S. History seemed like old stuff to most Barons, German exchange student Dirk Husemann had a different perspective.

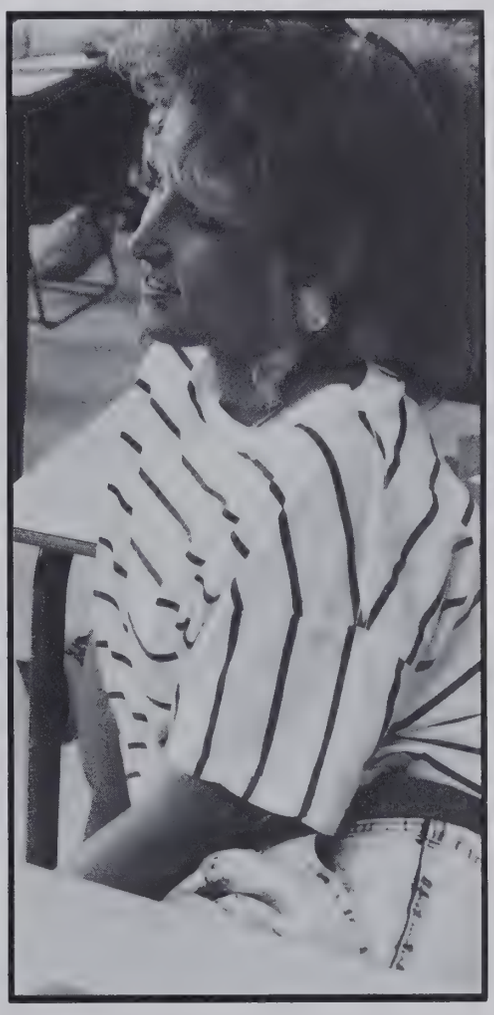
While some of her classmates relax near the end of the class period, Jill Dietsch keeps on working on her Advanced Psychology assignment.



Current Social Problems class helps senior students keep informed about recent world events. Traci Schlosser, left, concentrates on her assignment.

Often the back of the book has useful information. Renee Leffel consults hers in order to complete her assignment in Advanced Psychology.

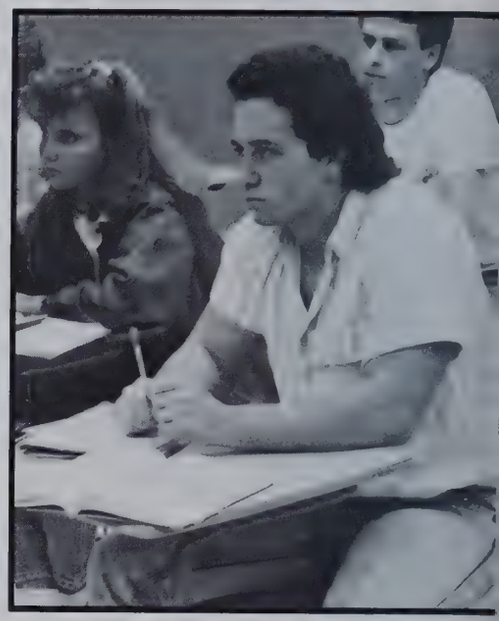


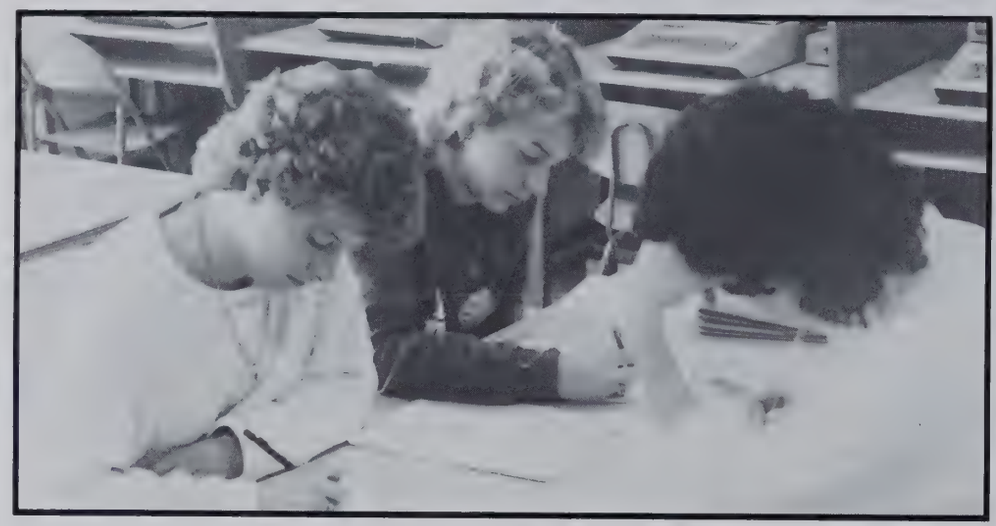


Amy Vose, above, sits and listens as a lively discussion progresses in her Sociology class, which is available for juniors and seniors.

Why are those history teachers always assigning reports for us to do? Left, Jody Vanderbeke carefully prepares her paper for U.S. History.

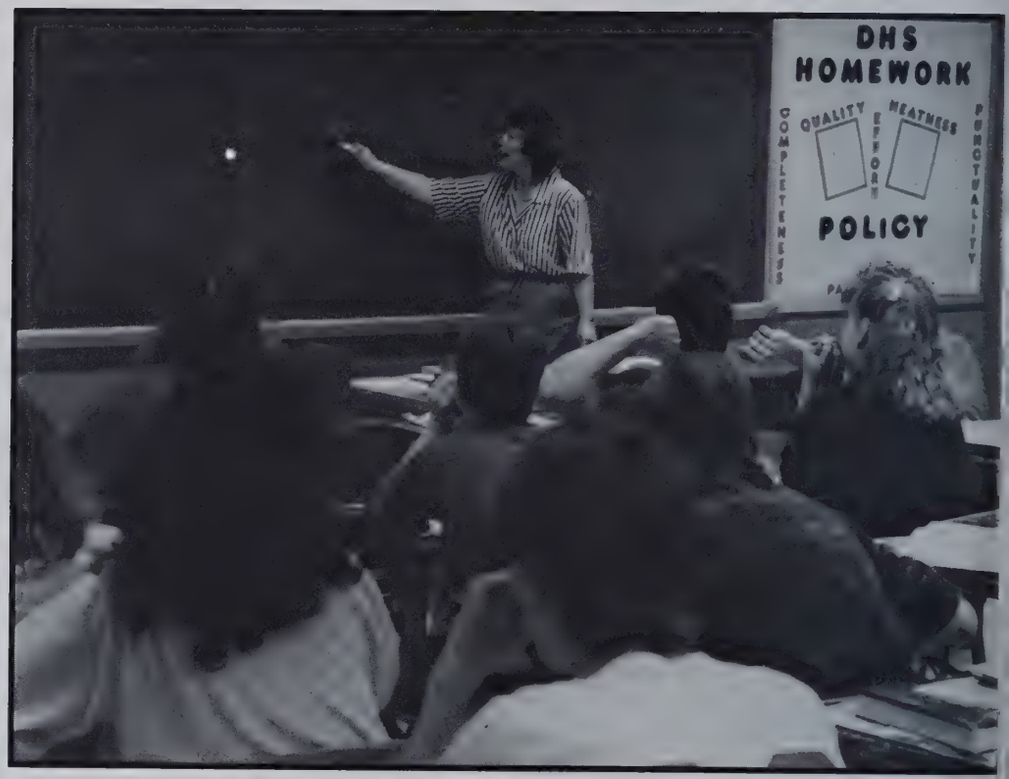
Listening carefully is very important for Todd Noll, right, in Analytic Geometry so that his homework assignment will make sense.

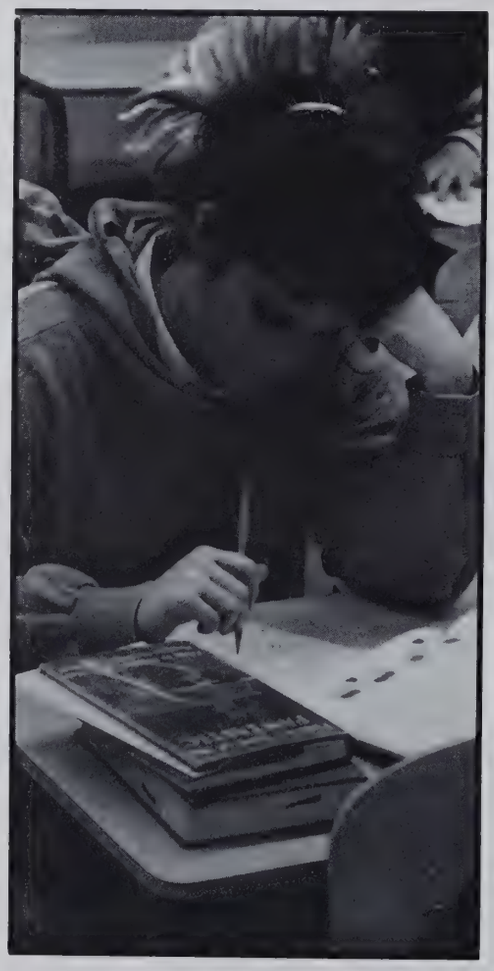




Listing all of the right instructions is necessary for Computer Programming II students Tina Wolff, Kim Shirk, and Renee Laverghetta.

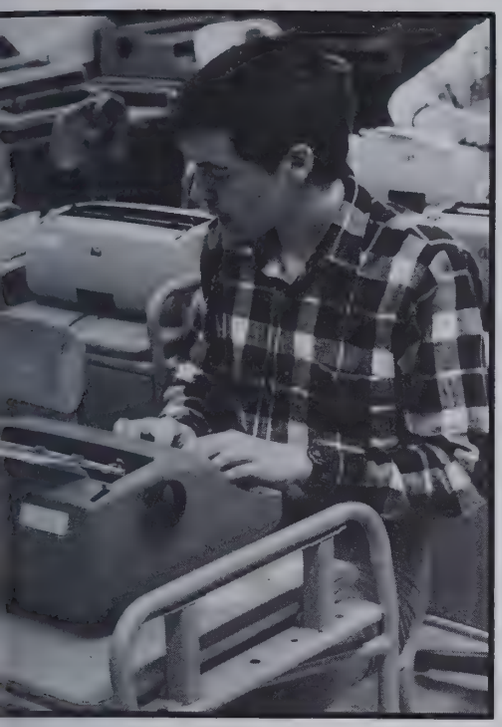
Mrs. Harlene Woodard has her algebra students' attention as she explains a problem from the day's assignment on the board.





"Now let's see. Should I multiply or divide to get the right answer?" Chris Winslow is deep in thought working on her General Math assignment.

Robert Maxwell prepares to check out his program to see if he can spot where he might have made a mistake in his Computer Programming II class.



Typing is a useful skill for anyone to have, especially college students and computer operators. Dari West works on his speed and accuracy.

Perhaps a future career as some executive's secretary is in store for Karrie Miser as she works on her typing assignment.

PREPARING WITH BUSINESS, MATH

The big bad world out there is just waiting for us to finish high school and join it. Both the Business and Math Departments offer courses which should equip us to be more successful in dealing with the outside world.

The Business Department offered classes to prepare students for certain types of employment as well as teaching skills and concepts that would be useful in their everyday life. Accounting, Recordkeeping, Business Law, Business Math, and Typing could be useful to almost anyone. Shorthand and Office Practice were intended more for those thinking of a secretarial career.

Two full years of computer classes were taught, with Computer Literacy and Computer Programming I being taught for one semester each. Computer Programming II gave students an even broader experience in both BASIC and PASCAL programming.

The Mathematics Department also helped students gain skills that might be useful in the future. General Math I and II presented all kinds of situations involving numbers and computation that students might encounter in the future. For those interested in a greater challenge, everything from Pre-Algebra to Calculus was taught.

An added dimension of teaching for many faculty members is helping with the many extra-curricular activities. Here, Miss Lora Rutherford and Mrs. Julie Bunch chaperone an after-game dance.

IN MEMORIAM

CHRISTINE J. FARVER

MARCH 9, 1971

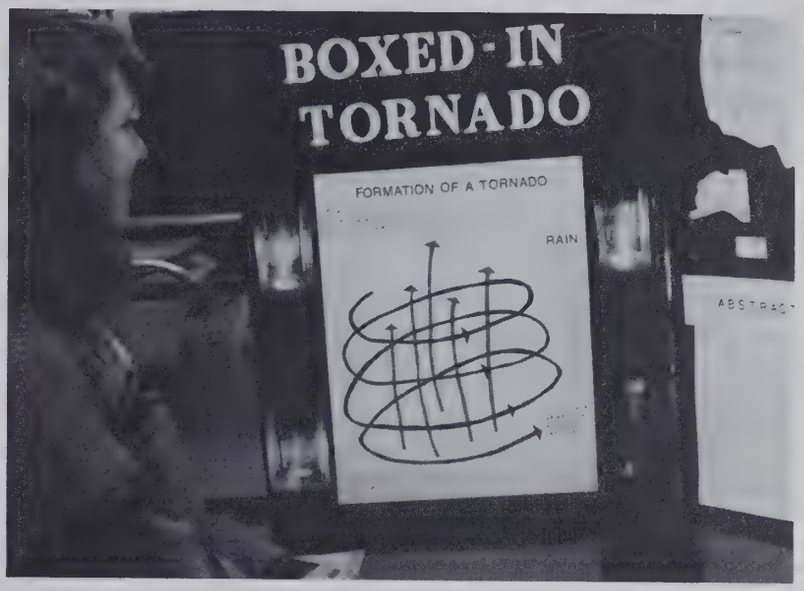
MARCH 7, 1988

Pictured with her classmates on the facing page is Christine Farver, who was injuried on March 5, 1988, in a pick-up truck accident. She died two days later as a result of those injuries, just two days before her seventeenth birthday. At DHS Christine was a member of choir and SADD.

Sophomore Scientists Shine



On February 20, 1988, DHS hosted its first Science Fair and several sophomores entered projects. Tammy Buss's project (left), for which she won first place locally, was about Color Perception in Carrasius Auratus (goldfish). Angie Kelleher's display (above) demonstrated the formation of a tornado.

Freshmen Display Athletic Abilities

Student Government Gains Some Added Dimensions

Student government in the form of the Student Council added a few new dimensions to the ones from past years. One of the most requested things — student opinions and thoughts — was taken more into consideration with the establishing of homeroom committees. This was where members of the Student Council were responsible for reporting to all of the homerooms about council activities and asking for input from the students.

The Council sponsored many dances to boost student morale throughout the year. These also served as money makers. One of the major dances held was for the benefit of Dollars for Scholars. Another popular dance was the Sadie Hawkins. The Council also made a special effort on Teacher Appreciation day, giving each teacher a flower and serving a special pizza lunch to the faculty.

Another new dimension was the Focus on Health, which helped students become more aware of their health condition. The Council also helped to run the Bloodmobile.

Also helping to encourage good citizenship were the toy drive in December and the donation to a family whose house had burned down.

Student Council officers attended a leadership institute to help them gain new ideas and skills to be more effective officers. The year was ended by the election of class and council officers and representatives for the 1988-89 school year.

Council member Jim Allen checks Ben Smaltz's temperature as Ben goes through the process before donating blood at the bloodmobile.

Not only students learned from the wheelchair obstacle course at the Focus on Health, sponsored by the Student Council. Here, Mr. Dale Hummer gives it a try.

Going "country" for the evening is one highlight of the Sadie Hawkins dance. Another is gathering with friends to have a group picture taken, as these students are demonstrating.

Doing student service work often involves doing a lot of paper work. Right, Shellie Schowe, working for Mr. Tim Koehl, gets down to business.

Student Service Workers Have Fun

Student Service is not only a way for able-bodied students who have study hall to escape the boredom and keep busy, but even more it is a chance for them to help their favorite teachers by grading papers, recording grades, decorating bulletin boards, and handling any number of other routine tasks for them.

Other students are assistants for the main office and guidance office, in which case they pick up attendance slips, deliver passes, keep track of absences, hand out notices, and do whatever else the secretaries might ask them to help with.

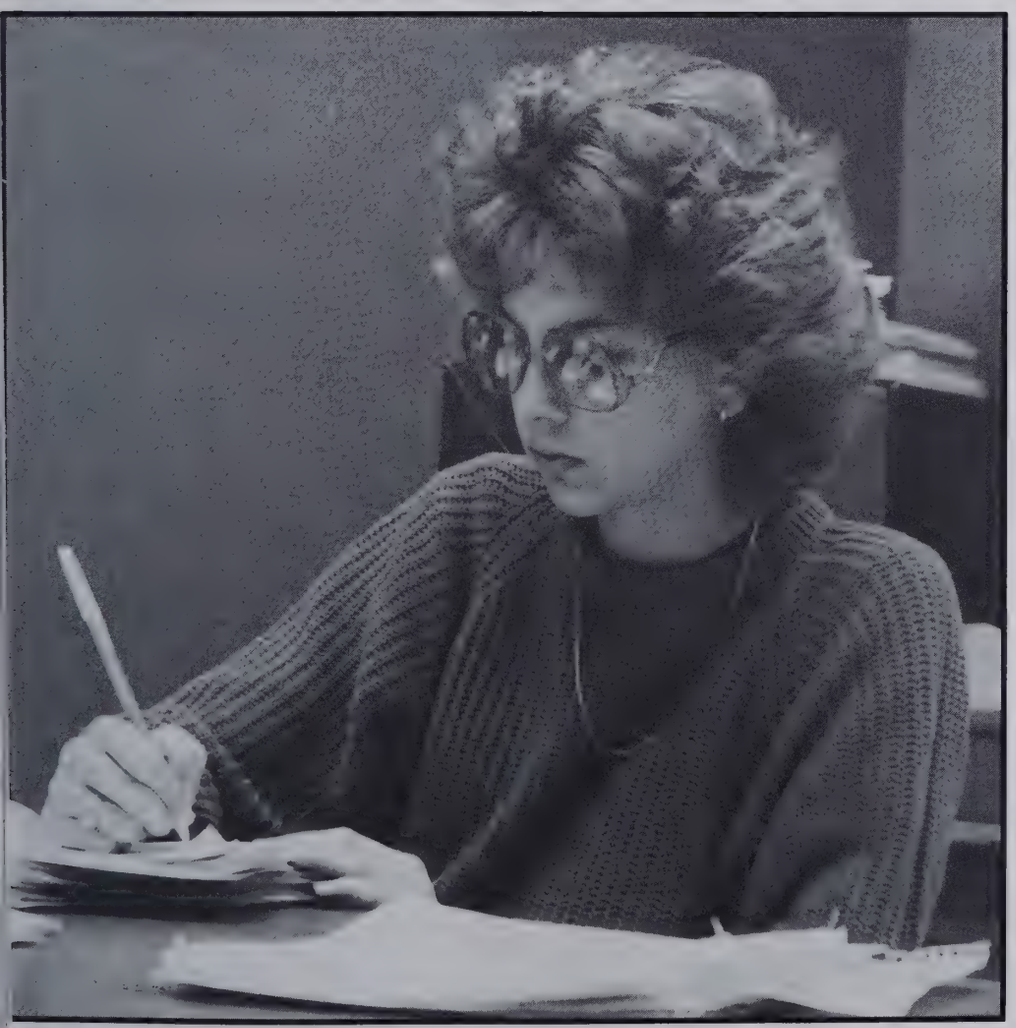
Still other student service workers assist in art, home ec, gym, industrial arts, music, and other miscellaneous classes.

An additional reward is given to student service workers besides the satisfaction of knowing they have done something to help their school. They are also awarded either a pin or a trophy depending upon the number of hours of student service work they have done.

You meet a lot of interesting new people when you do student service work. Traci Surber, right, relaxes with her new friend in the Biology department.

Tabulating the daily attendance slips after picking them up seems to be fun for Yvonne Sarznski and Tammy Wyatt.

Student service workers in the art department, such as Monica Kisselbach, act as teachers' helpers with supplies and materials.



Library work could be in her future as Angie Davis gets some practical experience by preparing some new books for circulation.

Melissa Brown seems to be all business as she concentrates on checking some Spanish papers for her teacher, Mrs. Pat Smith.

German Club Hosts Banquet, Olympic Competition

The German Club started out the year with working at the football concessions to earn money. Thanks to President Andy Miller, Vice-President Paul Rahe, Secretary Jenny Chapman, and Treasurer Leigh Bard, the German Club had a very successful year. The year included such events as the Christmas party to which German Club members from Hamilton High School were invited and the '50's-'60's dance which they sponsored.

Field trips also played an important part in the club's fun. The field trips included going to Frankenmuth, Michigan, and their summer trip to Europe. Some additional excitement went to the 15 students who won first place ribbons in the academic competition at the IPFW Foreign Language Festival.

The German Club's pride came through in the Foreign Language Banquet, which they organized this year. The evening started out with delicious food representing the countries where the German, French, and Spanish languages are spoken. After the meal was finished, the entertainment came into play. The clubs had gathered together and decided on an Olympic theme. Therefore they presented three "athletic" events. They included the German's slap dancing, the French's broom hockey, and the Spanish's taco eating contest. Members from each club represented their country in the competition, after which bronze, silver, and gold medals were awarded.

The German Club finished off the year by presenting a scholarship to one of the senior members of the club.

Perhaps his form is a little bit off. Jason Phillips failed to place in the step dancing competition in the Language Banquet's Olympics.

"And a partridge in a pear tree" is the translation of the song by the Hamilton High School guests at the German Club Christmas party.

Keeping track of tags for the coat check are Steve Rynearson and Paul Rahe, helping to earn money for German Club activities.

The Olympic events at the Foreign Language Banquet are opened by the "torch lighting ceremony" by representatives of all three clubs.

Officers Lead Language Clubs To Exciting Times

The language clubs are among the more active groups at DHS. All three took part in the Foreign Language Banquet and the Language Arts Festival. Both the Spanish and French Clubs planned several other activities for their members during the year.

Spanish Club President Bobbi Jo Rowan, Vice-President Gregg Lockwood, Secretary Angie Drew, and Treasurer Josh Durst planned out a great year. Things started with working at football concessions and ended with providing scholarships to seniors who had been outstanding students and club members. Of course, in between these times, a lot of other exciting things happened.

The Spanish Club sponsored a dance in honor of foreign exchange student Ruby Navarro and donated money to students who had had fires this year. At Christmas time club members visited the Betz Nursing Home, where they sang songs in Spanish and English and donated cookies and candies to the residents.

Two trips to Ft. Wayne provided food for Spanish Club members: the Christmas party at Chi Chi's and the May party at Show Biz Pizza, where club point winners received prizes and their meal.

In May the French Club also visited a Ft. Wayne restaurant, Le Gourmet. Earlier in the year they also saw a French play in Ft. Wayne. Club activities were planned by President Tony Schiffli, Vice-President Christine Blotkamp, Secretary Roberta Wurm, and Treasurer Tim Pancake.

The French Club sold concessions for a fund raiser and planned to hold car washes in the summer of 1988.

Brigadiers Provide Style, Sparkle For Band's Performances

As every year for the Brigadiers, it all started with the ever-so-nerve-racking week of try-outs in the spring. After performing in front of the panel consisting of Mr. Karkosky, Mr. Campbell, and Miss Synesall, thirty girls went on to make up the Brigadier corps.

Practice sessions started in the summer as a new show was developed and put into motion. Then the ideas for the new costume look were developed. The bolts of material were bought and the mothers' sewing machines went to full power. Although it was feared that the deadline would not be met, after many long nights, the last stitch was put into place. The look was like no other, a dimension of art form that brought gasps of admiration from the audiences.

During their field show, the Brigadiers were the story tellers for the selection of dramatic medieval European folk songs. The girls showed a wide range of feelings starting with the fear of superstition, going on to joy and romance, and ending with a noble victory showing that good triumphs over evil. The show started with the intensity of the dark and mystic look of black-caped sorceresses and moved on to the brightly-colored, shimmering soldiers and peasant girls.

For the winter season's floor shows, the Brigadiers gave an outstanding pregame show to accompany the National Anthem. They also presented many halftime shows which were choreographed by the girls themselves. "Dancing on the Ceiling," "Walk Like an Egyptian," and "Eli's Coming" were just three of the songs that they used.

Sarah Grimm, Misty Bell, Chris Mock, and Chris Mason look serious as they perform to "Eli's Coming" for the Baron Revue, presented March 14 and 15.

Being careful not to drop a flag, the Brigadiers demonstrate good eye-hand coordination during their pre-basketball-game show.

Clubs Formed For Special Purposes

Get Things Done

The three organizations on these two pages really have very little in common, except that each was formed for a very specific purpose.

The Ski Club's only purpose was to give its members a chance to go skiing. Each Thursday when there was a good snow cover in Michigan, club members climbed aboard a school bus for the trip to Timber Ridge. During their eight trips, there were no major injuries, not even a sprain. The president was Dusty Ousley and the treasurer was Tim Petre.

The purpose of the Letterwinners Club is to earn funds to help support the athletic department. To accomplish this, they sold concessions at all of the girls and boys basketball games. An on-going Letterwinners project is buying the pictures of sectional champs to hang on the wall. They also purchased an Atec pitching machine for the softball team. Officers were President Stuart Allison, Vice-President Tim McKean, and Secretary-Treasurer Jim Hummer.

The primary purpose of the National Honor Society is to give recognition to those juniors and seniors who have achieved excellence in the four qualifications of the Society: character, scholarship, leadership, and service.

NHS activities are service oriented, as members acted as ushers for open house and graduation. They also conducted a food drive at Christmas time. Officers were President Chris Franks, Vice-President Mark Gurtner, Secretary Andy Miller, and Treasurer Candy Kessler.

It's over there. NHS member Jeff Magginnis helps a parent find her child's classroom while serving as a guide at the Fall Open House.

Students Against Driving Drunk, FEA Are Active Groups

Two very active groups at DHS are Students Against Driving Drunk and Future Educators in Action.

SADD is the most unique program at DHS — unique because it is the only organization that allows students to help save lives.

Three seniors were in charge of the SADD program: Jim Allen, Julia Morrison, and Jenifer Reynolds. The sponsors were Mrs. Tita Gordon and Mrs. Marilyn Gearhart.

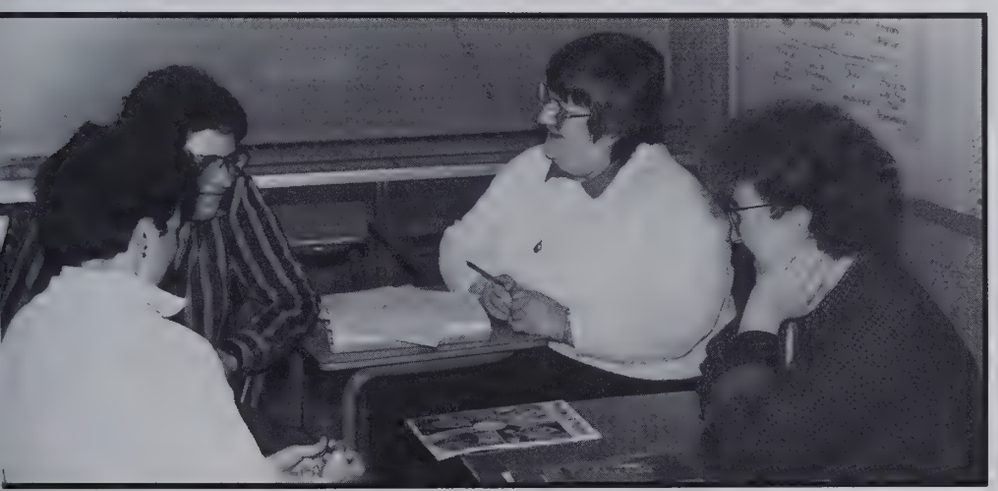
One of the special committees SADD organized traveled to elementary and middle schools performing skits and talking to fifth and eighth graders about the SADD program. The eighth graders were then given a chance to buy SADD cards and contracts for life.

SADD also awarded two scholarships to seniors and took a trip to Cedar Point Amusement Park.

Under the supervision of President John Bry, Vice-President Julia Gorrell and Secretary-Treasurer Ann Lock, FEA sponsored numerous after-school FEA-staff get-togethers. The Elfie program was also popular. The Elfies kept teachers' spirits high by sending them cards, gifts, etc. At Christmas time, FEA gave nursing home residents candy and music books.

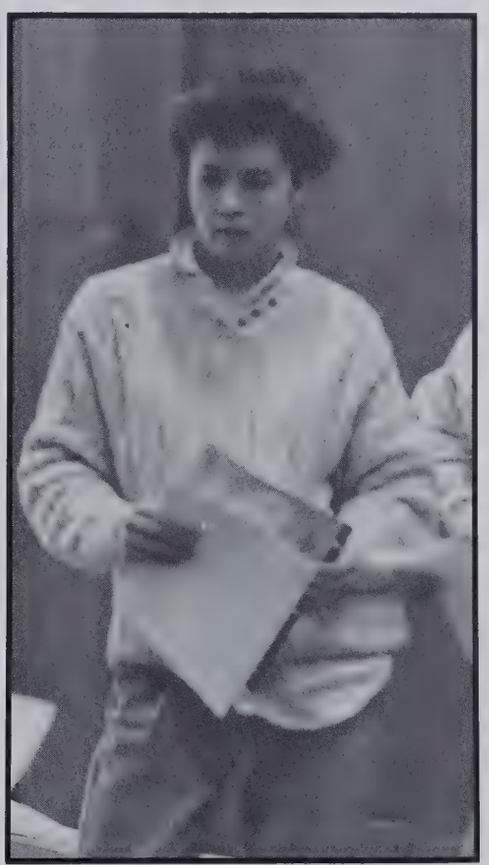
A "spring break" for FEA was a trip to Ball State University. FEA was also in charge of the "Teacher of the Month" program, which chose one teacher per month on the following criteria: good classroom organization, positive attitude, fairness, and they must have taught at DHS for more than one year.

In order to raise money for their activities, SADD sponsored an after-game dance just before Christmas. Above, students enjoy themselves at the dance.



Although SADD has a large membership, not everyone shows up for the meetings. Above are those attending one regular homeroom meeting.

Doing some committee work for the FEA and making some decisions are Ann Lock, Chris Egly, Miss Judy Eisenhut, and Julia Gorrell.



SADD had special groups that made presentations to middle school students. Above, Ami Winebrenner listens as plans are made.

Meeting in the gym balcony for a SADD group getting ready for the middle school are Jenny Wleklenski, Dawn Brewer, Julie Amstutz, Stacy Brewer, and Stef Peterson.

FHA, FFA Play Host To District Meetings

Two very active student organizations have the future in mind: for future homemakers and farmers. Both of these clubs hosted district meetings in 1988.

The Future Farmers of America chapter, under the guidance of Mr. David Gurtner, was always active. Members attended state and national conventions, and Lisa Hefty was named top leader at the state Leadership Camp. Scott Dunn was the district president and member of the state executive committee.

The FFA planted and harvested the school land lab, had a farm display at the fair, placed third in the State Tractor Trouble Shooting as a team and hosted about 600 of the county's third graders on an Ag Day farm tour.

Individual honors came to Todd Schowe, who was third in the state for Ag Mechanics Proficiency. Also competing on the state level were Micah Hefty in Production Demonstration, Scott Dunn in Leadership and Talent, and the Farm Business Management team.

Officers of the FFA were President Scott Dunn, Vice-President Micah Hefty, Secretary Lisa Hefty, Treasurer Jon Hefty, Reporter Brian Aschleman, and Sentinel Chris Heffley.

The Future Homemakers of America had the following officers: President Angie Davis, Vice-President Vicki Jackson, Treasurer Chris Mock.

Among the activities of the FHA was a continuation of their adopt-a-grandparent program at Betz Nursing Home, hosting the district convention, attending the state convention at Indianapolis, and holding a Spring Banquet. Through their fund-raising activities, they were able to purchase some small equipment for the foods department.

The DeKalb FHA chapter was responsible for bringing food from Switzerland to the District Convention that they hosted, as Mrs. Stomm's tag indicates.

Speech Team Finishes Third In Sectional Meet

The Speech Team experienced another successful year. Although they started slowly with an eighth place finish at Peru, they came on strong — placing second at LaPorte, just one point out of first place, and at North Side. They finished third at both Northrop and Snider.

The Ft. Wayne sectional also saw the locals finishing third, with 16 of the 20 Barons taking part qualifying to advance to the regional. Five of them then went on to state, where Paul Rahe placed eighth in U.S. Extemp. Other state qualifiers were Jason Mutzfeld, Bruce Buttermore, Linda Slone, and Bob Hardy.

Individually there were a number of Barons who placed well in the nine invitational meets. Fourteen of them placed in the top two finishers in their event at least once. Paul Dapp had the best record, finishing either 1 or 2 five times. Jason Mutzfeld and Andy Miller each had three seconds and a first, and Paul Rahe finished second four times.

Others who finished either 1 or 2 three times were Tamyra Rynearson, Cora Schonefeld, and David Kennedy. Ray Noragon finished first two times, and John Bry, Bruce Buttermore, Renee Leffel, Roberta Wurm, and Dawn VanAllen had one finish in either first or second place.

Several team members also took part in the District contest to try to qualify for Nationals. Paul Rahe and Bob Hardy in U.S. Extemp were our top finishers.

Activities of the Speech Team (also called Forensics) were coordinated by the Executive Council, composed of Paul Rahe, Tamyra Rynearson, Bruce Buttermore, and Roberta Wurm.

Congratulations, Bruce! Paul Rahe hands Bruce Buttermore the ribbon he has just won for Drama at the DeKalb Invitational Speech Meet.

Student Publications Keep Barons Informed

Student publications at DHS are the newspaper, the Baron Shield, and, of course, the yearbook, the Saber.

The newspaper tried to keep students, faculty, and the community informed about school activities and to give students a chance to express their opinions.

The Editor-in-Chief of the Baron Shield was Chris Mock. She was ably assisted by Collette Gilbert and Gina Tucker, Assistant Editors; Brian McCoy, Business Manager; and Brad Steinman, Lay-out Manager. The staff researched, photographed, wrote, typed, and arranged for the publication of the nine issues comprising the twenty-first volume of the Baron Shield.

The newspaper staff purchased several new pieces of equipment including a computer, a daisy-wheel printer, an automatic headliner, and a light table. The first four issues were printed by the graphic arts department, and the rest were printed in local commercial print shops. The last two issues were different in that they were folded rather than stapled in the corner.

The 1988 Saber was produced by students in the Journalism Yearbook class. Staff members planned the organization of the book, arranged for the photographing of seniors and underclassmen, contacted potential advertisers, wrote copy and picture captions, took and printed pictures, designed the cover, and prepared the layouts for this yearbook.

Serving on the staffs of both student publications was Brad Steinman, seen here studying a layout for the school newspaper.

Cheerleading Squads Boost School Spirit

Cheerleading seems glamorous to many people. But in reality, there are many hours of practice that go into working out the routines and chants so that it all will look smooth and coordinated when it is time to perform in front of the football or basketball crowd. In order to spend this responsibility, DHS chooses two complete squads of cheerleaders, one for football and one for basketball. Each squad is subdivided into freshman, reserve, and varsity levels.

Preparation for the cheerleaders started with their attendance at a week-long camp at Ball State University along with other squads from Indiana and surrounding states, where the reserve squad won an award for spirit.

In the fall the girls sponsored a cheerleading clinic, held on a Saturday, to help girls from the elementary schools learn more about the finer points of cheerleading. They also sponsored a float in the Saturday parade of the Fair. To raise funds for uniforms, the girls sold concessions at several freshman and reserve football games.

A highlight of the year came when the combined varsity squad placed first in the annual competition at Garrett, an honor which had eluded them in recent years.

Sponsoring the cheerleaders for 1987-88 was Mr. Jed Freels, a teacher at the middle school.

Long Distance Running Is Not Glamorous

It's not a very glamorous sport, it takes a lot of hard work, and the runners get very little recognition. But there were those dedicated few who helped to make the cross country team's season productive.

They finished with an 8-3 record, but didn't fare as well in special meets as some past teams have, placing only fourth in sectional and seventh in the regional.

Leading the team through most of the season was Chris Dove, whose best time of 16:40 was recorded at the sectional meet, where he placed fourth. Dove placed first in the sophomore race at the Northrop Invitational.

The second fastest time was turned in by Mark Schoudel when he covered the course of the Manchester Invitational in 17:09, closely followed by Doug Camp's best time of 17:12, recorded in the NEIAC meet at Shoaff Park in Ft. Wayne. Paul Richardson was close behind them both with his best time of 17:14, scored in the sectional.

Rounding out the varsity were Scott Boger, whose best time was 17:19; Tom Fischer, with a personal best of 17:45; and Doug Randol, whose 17:53 clocking at Manchester was his season's best. The runners on the reserve team worked hard to improve their times, with freshman Dan Harper showing an improvement of 4 minutes and 43 seconds. Coaching the Barons for his first year in cross country was Charles Barnum.

Headed for a time of 17:43 in the Snider Classic at Shoaff Park is Doug Camp, below.

Pioneering Athletes Blaze New Trails

Pioneers and trail blazers! A pioneer is one who bravely leads the way for those who are to follow. 1987 was the first year of girls golf at DHS and six brave young ladies went out for the team and stuck with it even though they did not win a single match. For most of these pioneers, it was the first taste of competitive sports.

Sylvia Southern led the team through most of the season with a 9-hole average of 60.6. She had improved by the sectional so much that she shot a 53-53-106 for 18 holes. Nicole Detrick, whose nine hole average was 61.6, also did well at sectional with a 56-56-112 score. The team finished fifth in the conference.

The girls cross country team experienced a difficult year. Since five runners are needed to compile a team score, the four girls runners were forced to compete as individuals, which made motivation a most difficult factor. The girls were led through most of the season by Nancy Wellman. All of them showed determination and dedication to make it through the long running season. Their coach was Mark Herndon.

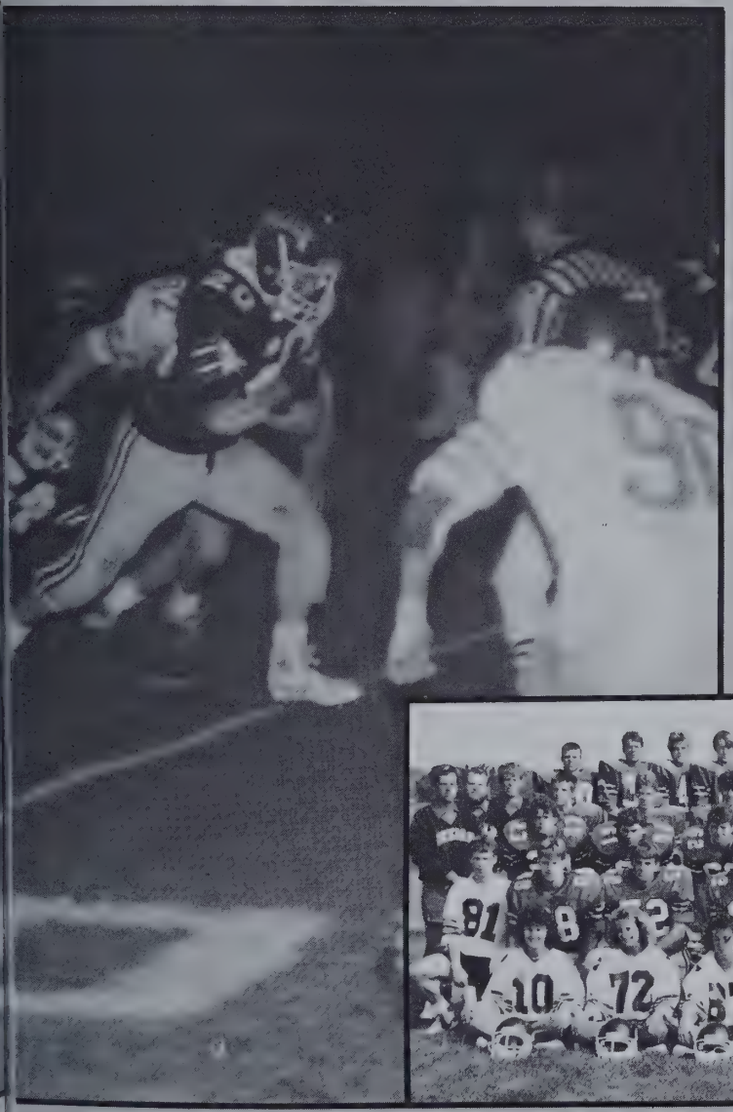
The Baron defense uses a time out called to help them get their signals straight and catch their breath.

As Phil Stevens (31), right, turns up the field, he watches the approaching defenders.

As Tom Findley (30) throws a block, quarterback Jim Hummer takes aim. Hummer passed for 943 season yards.

David Oster (20), to the right, breaks up the middle against East Noble. Oster had 192 total season yards.



Defending State Champs Fall From Glory

It's tough to be the defending State Champs. The leaders from the championship team have graduated and every opponent takes added pleasure in beating you. So the 1988 Barons faced a big challenge that they were not always able to meet, ending the year 4-5 and in a tie for sixth in the NEIAC.

Although they averaged about 25 yards a game more than the opposition, the 1988 Barons were not the intimidating force that the 1987 team was.

Leading the offensive unit, quarterback Jim Hummer completed 47 percent of his 165 passes for 943 yards, 8 interceptions, and 8 touchdowns. Tom Findley and Phil Stephens were the workhorses on rushing, each carrying the ball 136 times. Findley gained 474 yards and Stevens, 216 yards.

Although he had only 8 rushes, Stu Allison, usually a receiver, had the longest rush — for 47 yards. He caught 22 passes for a total of 338 yards and 4 touchdowns.

Defensive leaders included Lance Timberlin with 36 solo tackles, 62 assists, and 3 fumble recoveries. Jeff Griggs had 46 solo tackles and broke up 10 passes. Brett Henderson and Todd Cool each had 3 pass interceptions.

Named to the Conference First team were Stu Allison (tight end), Jeff Griggs (def. back), and Tim McKean (Snapper on special teams). Second team members were Jim Hummer (quarterback), Layton John (wide receiver), Mike Schmidt (lineman), and Lance Timberlin (linebacker).

Freshmen, Reserves Have Winning Habits

The freshman and junior varsity teams in volleyball and football had outstanding years. The freshmen, especially, did well with the football team being undefeated at 8-0 and the volleyball team losing only 3 of its 16 games. The two junior varsity squad had a combined record of 19-8.

The reserve football team, under Coach Dave Schlemmer, had a 5-2 year. Offensively, the team was quarterbacked by Erik Weber, with Thad Nixon being the leading rusher. A strong point for the jv's was their defensive backfield.

The freshman football team overpowered its opponents, winning all of its games and shutting out four teams. The most exciting game, the final one of the season, was against Columbia City, also undefeated at the time. Down at halftime, the Barons stormed back to a rainsoaked victory in the second half.

The freshman volleyball team's 13-3 record included winning championships in the Prairie Heights Invitational and the Homestead Freshman Tourney. The junior varsity also was successful. Top performers included Missy Crager with 81 kills. The leading setters were Candy Rodgers and Tammy Wolff. Leading servers were Lisa Charlesworth with 132 points scored on her serves and Shelly Rugman with 37 aces.

Spikers Continue Sectional Tradition

Continuing tradition from the past, the varsity volleyball team again won the sectional crown on the way to a 24-8 season. Three of the eight losses were to eventual state champ Snider.

The team also won the Whitko Invitational and were runner-ups in the Concord Invitational. Their 6-1 record in the NEIAC gave them second place in the conference.

The team had a balanced attack and outstanding serving. Leading the team in hitting were Machelle Joseph (252 kills), Lori Pomeroy (115), Tisha Yarlot (112), Lynda Cobbs (108), and Heather Rekeweg (94). Top servers, with their aces were Yarlot (53), Lisa Hefty (45) Joseph (43), Pomeroy (41), and Cobbs (36).

On the defensive side, the team showed good teamwork with the top blockers being Cobbs (39 stuffs), Joseph (38 stuffs), and Rekeweg (29 stuffs).

Named the Evening Star's Prep-of-the-Year and NEIAC first team, Machelle Joseph compiled some impressive stats. In spiking, she was good 86 percent of the time and had a 45 kill percentage. Joseph also established new school records for most kills in a season and in a career.

Lisa Hefty was the other first team selection in the conference. Her 541 assists established a new school record. In setting, Hefty was perfect 87 percent of the time and 98 percent of her serves were good, with 15 percent being aces. Lori Pomeroy and Lynda Cobbs were named to the NEIAC second team.

Netmen Compile Winning Record

Another winning season was posted by the boys' tennis team, equaling their 9-7 mark of the previous year. The reserve netmen earned a fine 11-3 record for themselves.

Although Coach Tim Koehl sometimes shuffled his lineup looking for the best combination, Senior Gregg Lockwood usually drew the heavy responsibility of playing at the number one singles slot. Lockwood had an 8-10 season. Junior Chad Weimer and Jamie Bonecutter were usually rotated at the second and third singles seeds. Weimer had an 11-8 mark, while Bonecutter's record was 12-7.

Rounding out the varsity and usually playing doubles were juniors Todd Muzzillo (11-6) and Jeff Warner (10-5), sophomore Kevin Neumann (10-7), and senior exchange student Thomas Koch (9-3).

The Barons lost in the sectional semifinal round to Leo 2-3 after defeating Howe Military 5-0. They placed fifth in the NEIAC with a 3-4 conference record.

Gregg Lockwood was voted to the second team in the NEIAC and Jamie Bonecutter and Todd Muzzillo received conference honorable mention recognition.

The DeKalb Invitational was won by Norwell for the second year in a row, with Mike Brown of Norwell as the Number One Singles Champion. East Noble finished second and Jay County was third. The Barons placed sixth in the eight team field, with their best finish being fourth place by Todd Muzzillo and Rod Tester at number two doubles.

Regional Trip Caps 10-15 Season

"It was the best of times; it was the worst of times." The varsity season was a combination of both. Although they ended the regular season with a 6-14 record, they won the Garrett sectional and surprised nearly everyone by defeating Elmhurst in the regional before losing to Bishop Dwenger in the regional finals.

On the offensive side of the ledger, the Barons shot 44.2 percent from the field. They outshot their opponents on three point shots — 39.8 compared to 28.5 percent — and free throws — 71.6 compared to 68 percent. Four players shot over fifty percent on two point shots: Jeff Reese (53.9), Jody Wiedenhoeft (53.1), Bruce Fuhrer (51.8), and Todd Muzzillo (50). Ben Haney was close behind at 49.5 percent.

Contributing to the free throw percentage were three players who shot over eighty percent: Jeff Reese (88.8), John Ulm (85.2), and Jason Smith (84.6).

The Barons shot over fifty percent in seven games including all three of their wins in the sectional. However, their best percentage of 58.8 was against Bishop Dwenger in the regional. Unfortunately Dwenger took eleven more shots and scored 61.2 percent of the time.

Rebounding was a problem for the Barons as they were outrebounded 716 to 631. Top rebounders were Haney (92), Erik Weber (90), Jeff Reese (88), and Bruce Fuhrer (85). Micah Hefty had 78 assists and Greg Lantz had 32 steals to lead the team in those areas.

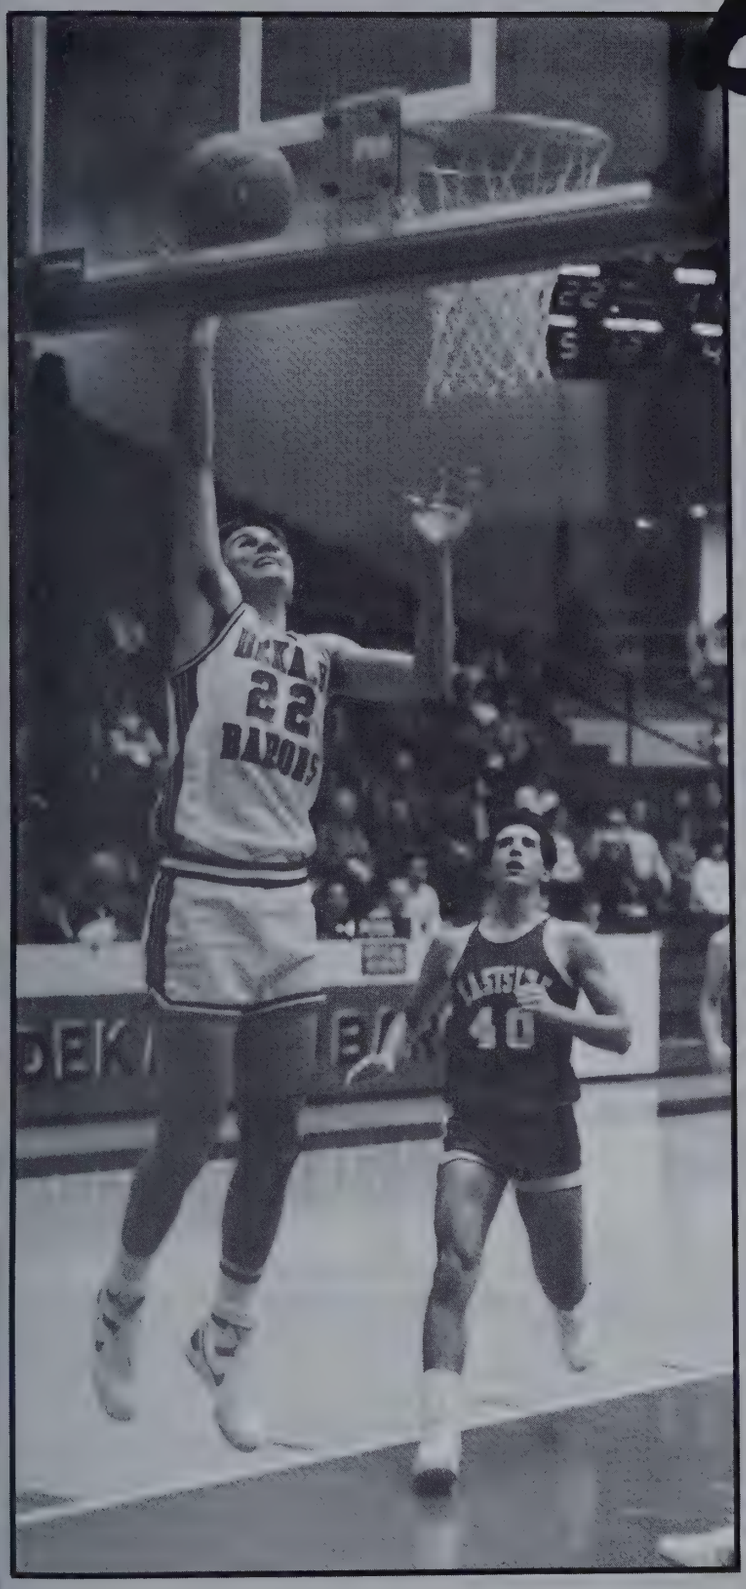
Vince Wells is very closely guarded as he tries to power the ball into the basket for the reserve team.

Playing for the junior varsity against Eastside, Brad Woodcox tallies two more points for the Barons.



Being NEIAC Champs Becomes JV Habit

Conference champs five years in a row! That's the proud record of the junior varsity and Coach Bert Bush, who have been 36-4 in the NEIAC through the past five years. Their 18-2 record is the second best in school history. The reserve team also won their own holiday tourney.

This record was truly the result of a team effort as they averaged 49.4 points per game while holding the opponents to 36.8, a new school defensive record. The tough defense is also evident in the average of almost eleven steals per game. As a team the j.v. averaged 67 percent from the foul line and 45 percent from the field.

Meanwhile, things went nearly as well for the sophomore team under Coach Tim Koehl, which compiled a 6-3 record. Their leading scorer was Scott Price, who averaged 10.4 points per game for 94 total points. Others who helped the cause and their total points were Ron Schuller (76), Jamie Back (49) and Trent Stuckey (44).

On the other hand, the freshmen, under Coach Jim Pickett's guidance, were 11 and 8. Several players contributed to this success. Bryon Bailey averaged 9.1 points per game and was second in rebounds (79). Nick Keller, who averaged 7.1 points, was 54 percent in shooting from the field. Leading in assists (67) and steals (34) was Tracy Joseph, followed by Matt Bishop with 43 and 30 respectively. Matt Peters was the leading freshman rebounder with 83.

The freshman B team was 10-2, losing only to Carroll and Concordia by one point each.

Joseph Leads State For Scoring Title

There were many positive things about the Lady Barons' season, but it ended sooner than they had hoped with a loss to Woodlan in the sectional semifinals, thereby losing a chance for a rematch with Snider, the eventual state champ, whom they had defeated early in the season.

Although much of the media attention was focused on Machelle Joseph, named to Parade's second team, she had a lot of support from her teammates. Lori Pomeroy and Amy Weaver were both forces inside, pulling down 155 and 117 rebounds respectively. They both also shot over 50 percent from the field.

Joseph led the state with a scoring average of 35 points per game — for a school record of 736 points and 1,633 career points. She also led the team in assists (80), steals (73), and three point field goals (11).

Sharing the duties at the guard position were Tina Menier and Lisa Hefty. Menier had 74 assists, 53 steals, and 109 points while Hefty had 38 assists, 47 steals, and 165 points.

Senior Karmen Schuller also contributed to the team, although slowed down by previous knee surgery, with her defensive skills and steady play.

The Lady Barons were ranked sixteenth in the state at the end of the season. They won their own holiday tourney and the NEIAC tourney. Their 7-1 regular season conference record placed them second in the league.

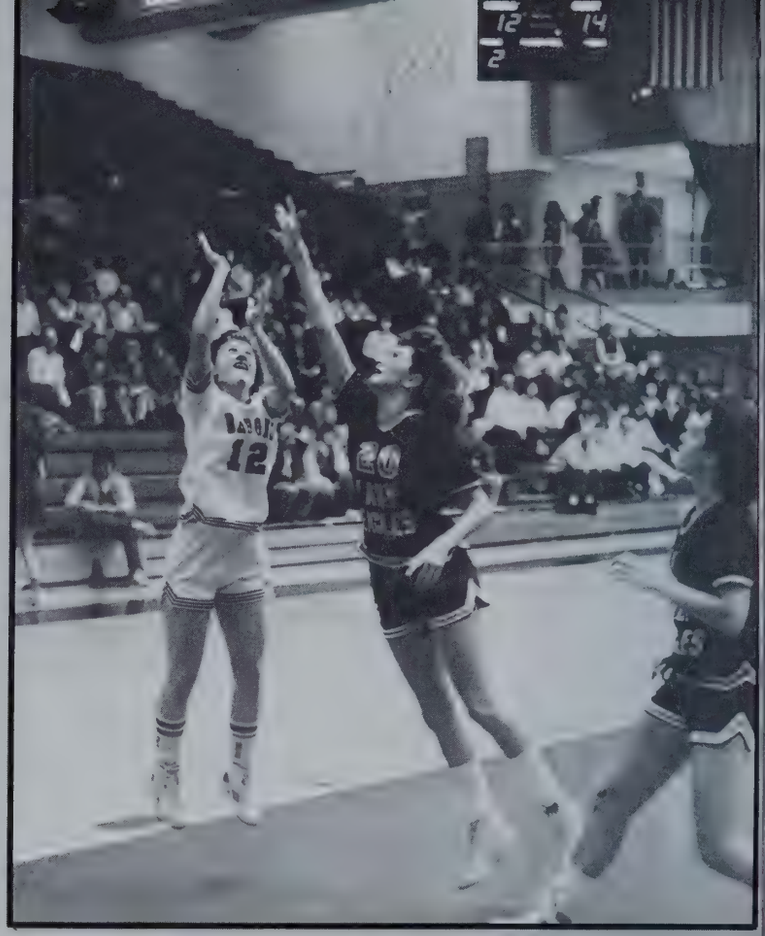
Sailing thrugh the air, Tina Menier prepares to launch the ball at the basket against Homestead.

Always closely guarded, Miss Basketball candidate, Machelle Joseph looks for an opening against New Haven.



Trying to dribble past her opponent is Julie Whittington (42), who scored 80 points for the freshmen.

As the Columbia City player guards her, Tammy Wolff (12) arches her shot at the basket.

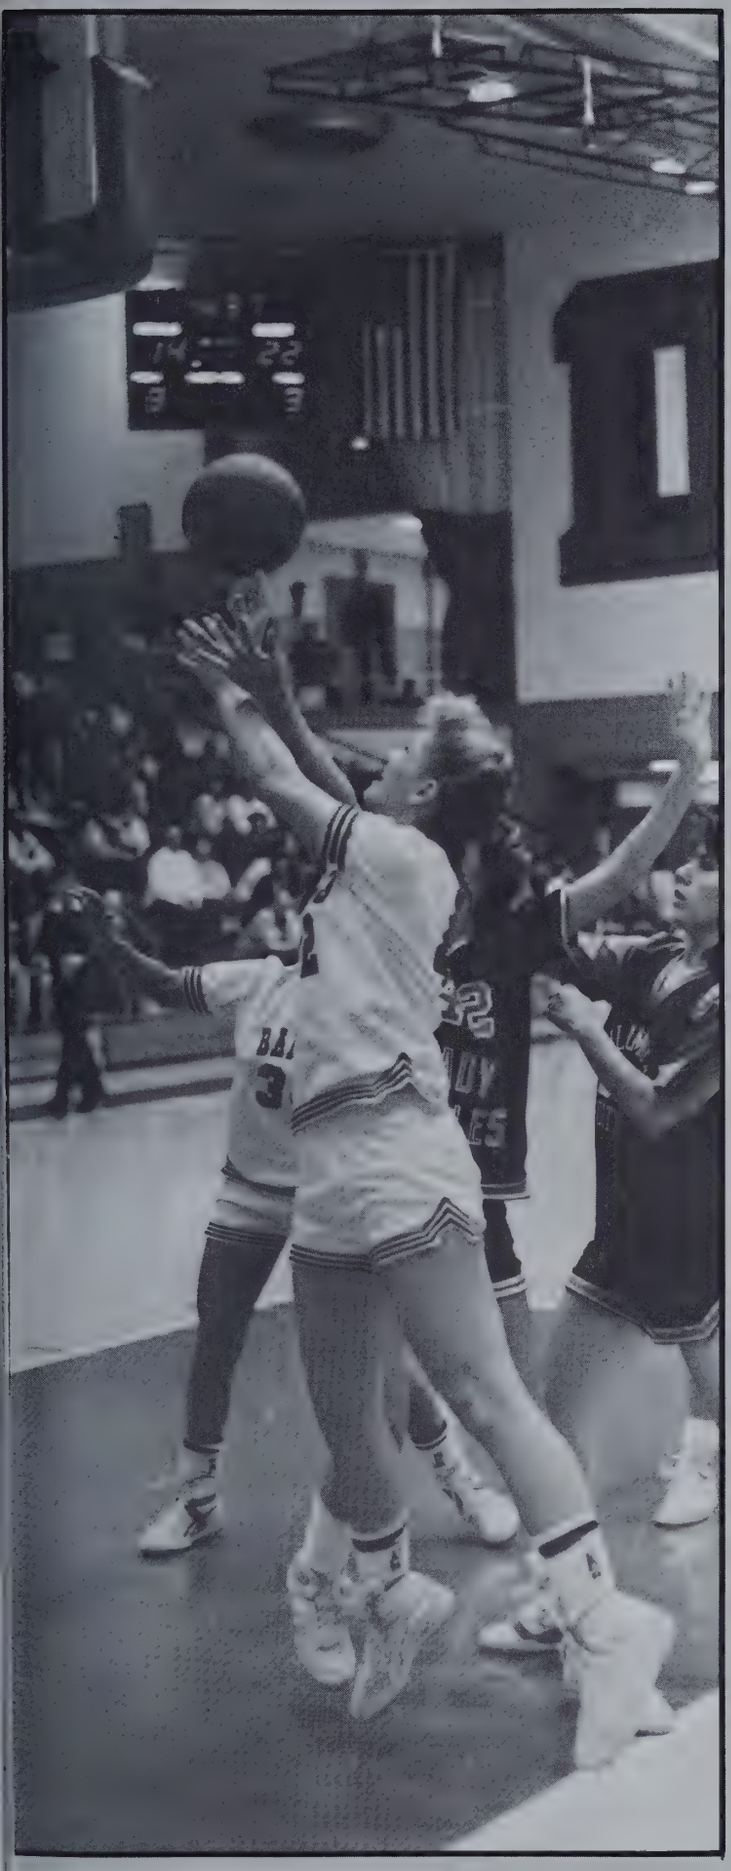
Leading scorer for the junior varsity was Missy Crager (24), who averaged eight points per game.

As Beth Garman (34) blocks out, Kerrie Quickery (50) takes a shot in the Homestead game.



Would you call that a foul? Angie Quickery hopes that the ref will blow his whistle for the 3 point play.

Lady Reserves Dominate Opponents

The junior varsity edition of the Lady Barons started and ended with a loss, but in between they won fourteen in a row, outscoring their opponents 609 to 348. They won their holiday tourney and were 7-1 in conference play.

The Lady Reserves dominated the opposition in every category. They were 35.5 percent on field goals and 54 percent of free throws. They had 341 total rebounds, compared to 296, and only 215 turnovers compared to 324.

Leading the team in several categories was Missy Crager. With a free throw percentage of 70.59, she averaged 8 points, 5 rebounds, and 2.3 steals per game. Candy Rodgers averaged 3.1 assists per game and Angie Quickery shot 48 percent from the field.

The freshman squad was 9-6 for the year. Their leading scorer, Joy Kroemer, averaged 8.2 points per game for 123 total points. Also scoring well were Sarah Schmidt with a 6.3 average and Julie Whittington, averaging 5.3 points per game. Three girls shot at least 50 percent on free throws: Schmidt (54%), Whittington (54%), and Kelly Franks (50%).

Gymnasts Meet Tremendous Challenge

Talk about challenges! Coach Cheryl Gilbert faced a big one as the gymnastics season opened. With a team composed mainly of freshmen and sophomores, she had only two juniors and no seniors to work with. Just three members of the team had had any previous experience. And they had to go up against some of the better teams in the state of Indiana.

Given all of that, they did well to emerge with a 3-11 record. They never were the last place team in any of the invitationals or tourneys that they entered. One bright spot was the team's performance on the bars, which had sometimes been a problem in past years. Although no new records were set, their overall scoring on bar routines was strong.

In the challenging beam competition, the team had seven no-fall routines, with Angie Bishop and Ami Winebrenner having two each.

Junior Angie Bishop was the team's top performer. She was named to the second team in the conference. She placed third on the beam in the NEIAC and fifth in the vault at sectional, which was not good enough to advance to the regional.

FRONT ROW: Amy Brown, Stef Schlosser, Staci Joseph, Angie Bishop, Ami Winebrenner. SECOND ROW: Mgr. Scott Boger, April McLain, Angie Gilbert, Ginger Rottger, Doni Korff. THIRD ROW: Mgr. Staci Joseph (above) smiles for the judges after her vault. Injury kept Joseph from finishing the season.

Concentrating on her landing, junior Ami Winebrenner works the beam. Ami had two no-fall routines.

Two Wrestlers Advance To Semi-State Meet

They started the year knowing that they were, as a team, young and inexperienced, but they were determined to do their best even though they would face some stiff competition. Although the team finished 4-8-1, there were four who qualified for the regional and two of them advanced to the semi-state.

Sophomore Chad Saucedo, 130 pounds, advanced by placing third in the regional, as did senior Lance Timberlin, 171 pounds, who finished second at the Carroll regional. Other regional qualifiers were Richard Worman and Doug Aschliman.

Wrestlers having at least 15 wins and their records were Aschliman (19-9), Saucedo (15-7), Timberlin (22-7-1), and Cal Bowers (15-6). Freshman Bowers also placed first at the Woodlan Invitational.

There were seven wrestlers who pinned an opponent in less than a minute, with Aschliman leading the way with a 16 second pin. Timberlin topped the team with 15 wins by pins.

The reserve team had a lot of depth and used it well to finish 9-1, losing only to Northrop. Jeff Bell, who also saw some varsity action, finished the year with a 9-2 record.

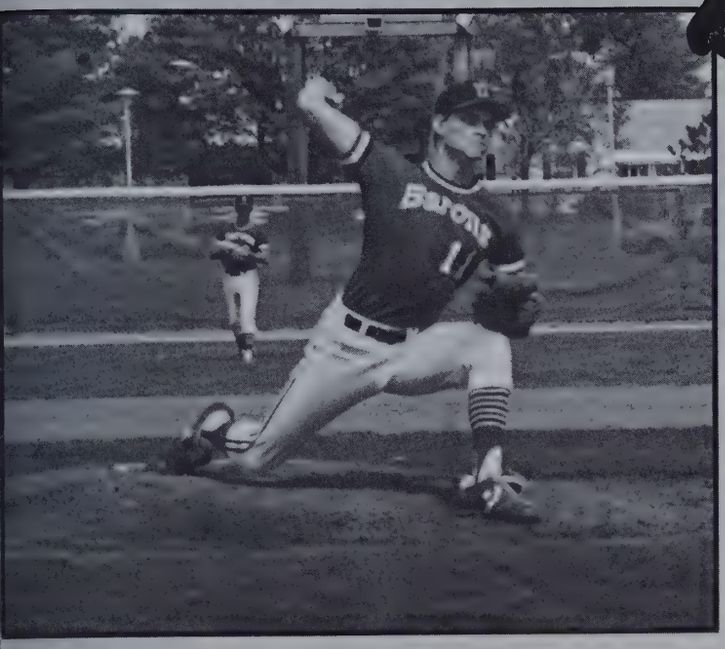
Hurry up, Tom! Coach Jones urges Tom Findley to try to score on his teammate's base hit.

Give him five! Senior Tim McKean is congratulated by teammates after hitting his home run (below).

Tim McKean follows through as the ball jumps off of the bat. The results were a home run.

A full team reception awaits Ken Jones as he trots home after hitting one of his home runs.

Determination shows on the faces of pitchers John Ulm (11) and Ken Jones (19) as they deliver the ball.



Barons Place Four On NEIAC Squad

After getting off to a rather slow start, the Barons got their act together, winning 17 of their last 21 games. Although they finished out of the running in the conference, they managed to place three players on the first team in the NEIAC, only one less than conference champ New Haven.

The Barons won the sectional, but had some seventh inning problems against Warsaw in the regional and ended up on the losing end of a 4-3 score.

John Ulm, Tim McKean, and Jason Smith were those named to the NEIAC first team. Although he also pitched, Ulm was selected as an outfielder. He had a .343 batting average, 17 RBI's, and scored 31 runs. He had only 4 errors in 211 innings of playing time.

Designated hitter Tim McKean led the team with a .397 batting average. He had 23 RBI's and a .450 on base percentage. Pitcher Jason Smith had a 14-3 record and a 1.098 ERA. In 102 innings pitched, he struck out 120 batters, walked 35, allowing only 57 hits. Smith's .340 batting average with 13 RBI's was also a help for the team.

Honorable mention honors went to outfielder Phil Stevens, who batted .358, had 18 RBI's, and had 10 doubles to lead the team in that category.

The team batted .331 for the season. Besides the stats already mentioned, other strong hitters were Tom Findley (.367), Brett Henderson (.358), and David Oster (.350). In the power department, three Barons had 4 home runs: Tom Findley, John Ulm, and Ken Jones. Findley led the team with 16 stolen bases.

The pitching staff, led by Smith, had a 2.840 ERA. Ken Jones had a 4-1 record and Mike Spratt's 2.367 ERA helped him to save two victories for the Barons.

DIAMOND DARLINGS: Angie Hartman, Terri Traxler, Jenny Myers, JoLynn Houghton, Beth Brechbill, Anna Miller, Cindy Stout.

Baseball, Softball Reserves Win

The reserve teams of both sports played with a bat and ball on a diamond finished with a combined 20-11 record.

The junior varsity baseball team (12-8) ended up with a team batting average of .336, and the pitching staff had a 4.06 ERA.

Tim Petre (5-1) had the most wins with his 3.24 ERA and the most strike outs with 48. Ron Dobson (4-3) pitched the most innings (34) and had an ERA of 2.88. Although Scott Bebout's record was 0-1, his ERA was a fine 1.14 for over 18 innings pitched.

The baseball reserves had a team batting average of .336, hitting 7 homers and 43 other extra base hits. There were five regular players who had averages over .400. Two who tied for the team lead at .450 were Jamie Back and Nick Keller. Others were Matt Peters (.431), Jim Leslie (.406), and Ron Dobson (.400).

Other team leaders were Dobson with 3 home runs, Leslie with 26 hits and 29 runs scored, Peters with 25 RBI's, and Eric Miller with 12 walks.

The 8 and 3 softball junior varsity had a .293 batting average. Team leaders were Jenni Dunn, who batted .455 and Kerrie Quickery, at .400. Julie Whittington had the most hits with 14. Tara Stayer topped the team with 20 runs and 17 stolen bases. The team leader in RBI's was Jackie Wallace with 11.

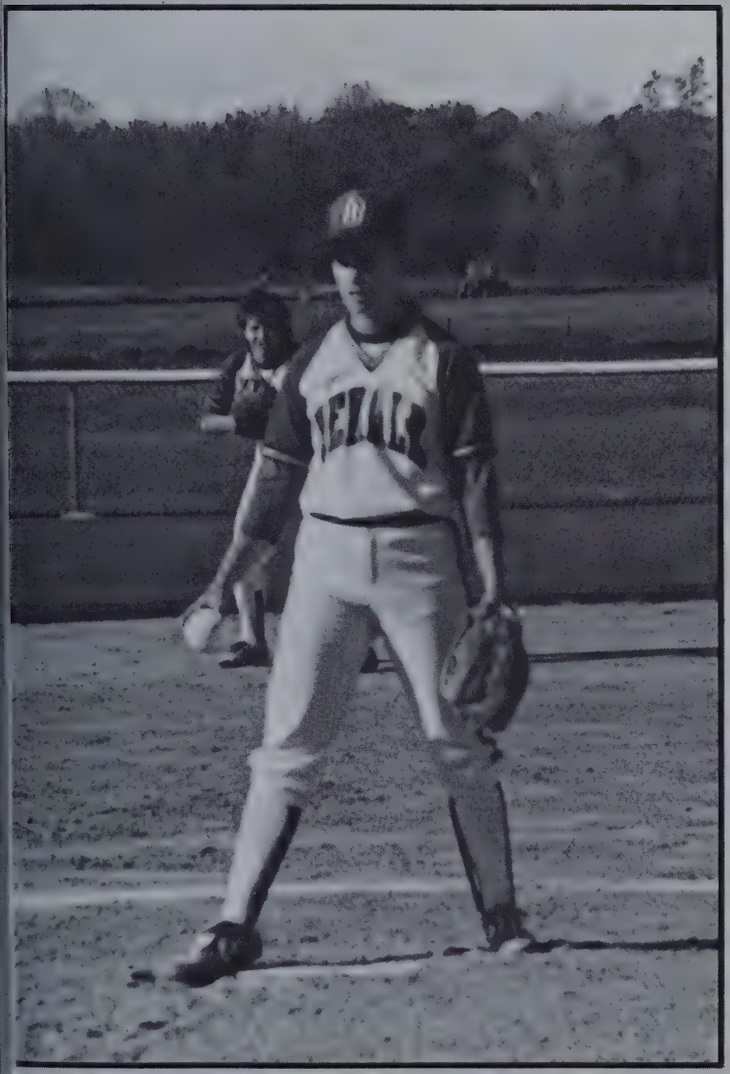
As Erica Wallace rounds third, both Coach Myers and the Bellmont third baseman point toward home.

After defeating Bellmont, senior Tina Menier and the Barons accept the NEIAC trophy from Mr. McKean.

As the umpire watches to make sure she touches the plate, Shannon Messman comes in to score against Snider.

Joy Kroemer steps up in the batter's box to try for a hit to help the cause for the Barons.

Ace pitcher Angie Quickery, below, had help from the defense behind her to compile a winning record.



Seventh Ranked Barons Win Conference

When the season started, the Baron softball team didn't get a lot of respect in the state rankings, but as the season wore on and the wins added up, the rest of Indiana had little choice but to recognize their accomplishments, and they finished the season ranked seventh and just one victory short of making it to the state finals. Along the way, they won the championship in the NEIAC and compiled a 22-3 season record.

The name of Quickery, especially Angie Quickery, must have inspired fear in the bones of opposing batters, as she and her strong arm compiled some very impressive statistics. In 135 innings pitched, Angie had a 1.607 earned run average while compiling a 19-2 pitching record. She struck out 159 and walked 88 of the 564 batters that she faced. Her younger sister Kerrie pitched the remaining 23 innings.

On the offensive side of the ledger, there were several Barons who made significant contributions. Of the Barons who played on a regular basis, four had batting averages over .300, with Angie Quickery leading the way at .477. Others were Becky Barnett (.346), Tina Menier (.333), and Renee Smith (.308). Barnett led the team with 23 hits, 25 stolen bases, and 36 runs scored. Angie Quickery had 11 doubles and 23 RBI's, to lead the team in those categories. She also scored 35 runs. Joy Kroemer and Renee Smith scored 30 times for the Barons. Tina Menier had four triples and Tisha Yarlot recorded the team's only home run.

Cron, 400 Relay Team Set New Records

The boys track team had another 6-5 record, but came on strong near the end of the season to place third in the NEIAC and second at the East Noble Relays.

Two new school records were set and another one was tied. Sean Crown, who scored more points for the Barons than any other team member, broke the record in the 100 meter high hurdles more than once, finally ending up with a 14.5 clocking in the meet against New Haven and Columbia City. The 400 meter relay team of Stuart Allison, Brian Handshoe, Frank Souder, and Joel Frymier set a new record time of 44.7 seconds in the conference, which was good enough for third place behind Homestead (43.7) and New Haven (43.8). Frymier also tied Tony Michael's time in the 200 meter dash of 23 seconds.

Although those were the only new school records, there were many other outstanding performances. In the hurdle events, Kirk Sells gave Cron a run for his money, having a time of 14.7 in the 100's. Sells had a better time in the 300 meter low hurdles with a time of 39.5 in the conference (second place) while Cron's best time was 40.7.

In the 100 meter dash, four runners had a time under 12 seconds: Frymier (11.2), Souder (11.6), Handshoe (11.7), and Allison (11.9). Allison also did well in the jumping events with a high jump of 6'1" and a long jump of 20'11".

The Barons had two pole vaulters who challenged each other all year. At the East Noble Relays they both had their best efforts with Bryan Young vaulting 13'9" and Steve Ulm close behind at 13'6".

In the throwing events, Cal Bowers threw the shot 48'10" and Stan Shipe threw the discus for 135'10".

Paul Richardson floats on air as he rounds the curve in the 1600 meter race. His season best was 4:44.3

Early in the track season, Machelle Joseph strains as she nears the end of the 800 meter run.

Girls Track Places 5th In NEIAC

It was a tough year for the girls' track team, managing to win against only one opponent for the season. The reserves did a little better, winning five while losing six. Teamed with the boys, the varsity placed third at the Carroll Relays. And they placed fifth in the conference.

Three individuals and one relay team did well enough to qualify for sectional competition. Lynda Cobbs qualified in high jump (5'1"), long jump (16'4¼"), and the 300 meter hurdles (:49.0). Lori Pomeroy also qualified in the 300 meter hurdles and finished fourth in 49 seconds to qualify for the regional.

Nancy Wellman's time of 63.3 seconds in the 400 meter run qualified her for the sectional, but injury kept her from competing.

The 1600 meter relay team had a 4:23 time to also qualify for the sectional. The team was composed of Tammy Wolff, Sarah Miller, Lori Pomeroy, and Nancy Wellman with alternate Leigh Bard.

Contributing to the fifth place finish in the NEIAC, which was hosted by DHS, were Pomeroy (third in 300 hurdles), Cobbs (fifth in 100 hurdles and fourth in 300 hurdles and long jump), Shelly Rugman (fifth in discus and sixth in shot), and the 400 relay team of Wolff, Miller, Pomeroy, and Wellman (sixth place).

Other significant season bests were posted by Cobbs in 100 hurdles (:16.3), Shelly Rugman in shot (31'7") and discus (106'2"), Tammy Wolff in the 400 meter run (66.0), and Leigh Bard in the 100 meter dash (:13.6) and 200 meter dash (:28.4).

Woodcox, Team Win Conference

It isn't difficult to figure out what the highlight of the golf season was. They won the NEIAC crown with a score of 320. Medalist honors in conference were earned by Brad Woodcox with his outstanding score of 76. Wes Oswalt with his 79 and Trent Stuckey, 81, made the second team all-conference.

Although the team placed only sixth in the sectional, thanks to some inconsistent play, two golfers played well enough to advance to the regional as individuals. Mike Houser had a 76 and Trent Stuckey shot a 78 in the sectional. Stuckey was regional medalist with a 73, but his 80 at state failed to qualify him for the second day of play.

In dual meets, the team lost only two matches, one by four strokes and the other by three. The best individual average in nine-hole matches was shot by Brad Woodcox, with a 38.4. He also had the season's best nine-hole score of 32, which he shot against Garrett. Three other varsity golfers had averages under 42. They were Mike Houser (41.4), Gregg Lockwood (41.3), and Trent Stuckey (41.7).

The reserve team also had a good year, winning eight matches and losing two. The two losses were to Angola by one stroke and to East Noble, which was decided by the score of the fifth man. Reserve Mike Payne had a 43.5 average, and Brent Winebrenner, Troy Wray, Jeff Kessler, and Kevin Neumann all had averages under 45.

Jodi Vanderbeke, who was 7 and 6 at number one doubles uses follow-through on her shot (right).

Number one singles player Nicole Detrick, below, warms up before a match held early in the season.

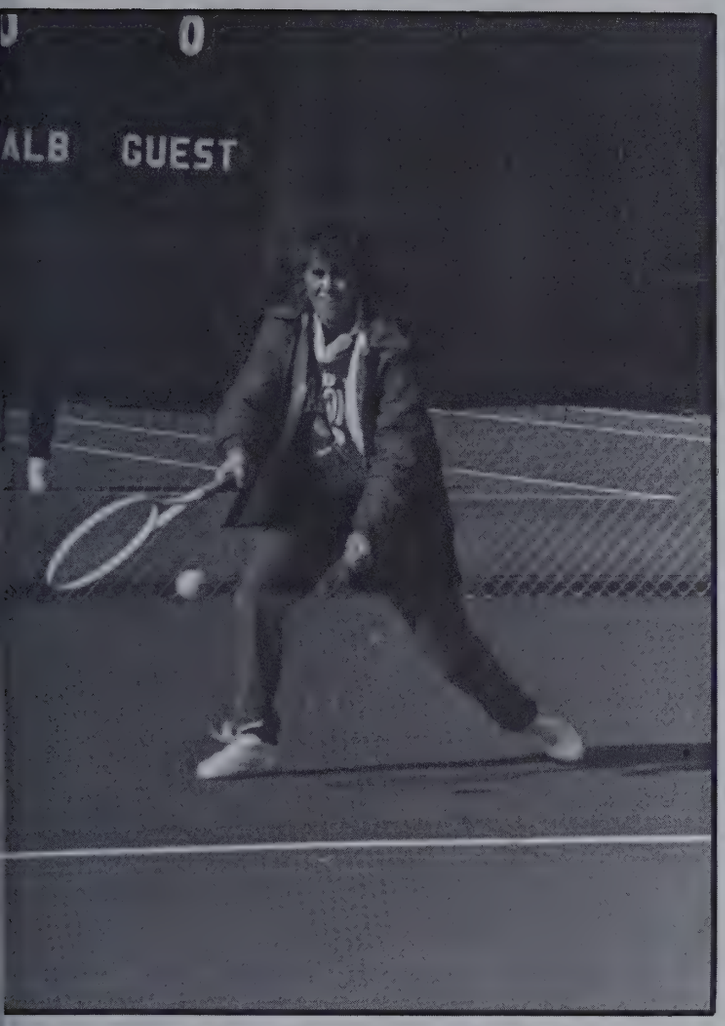
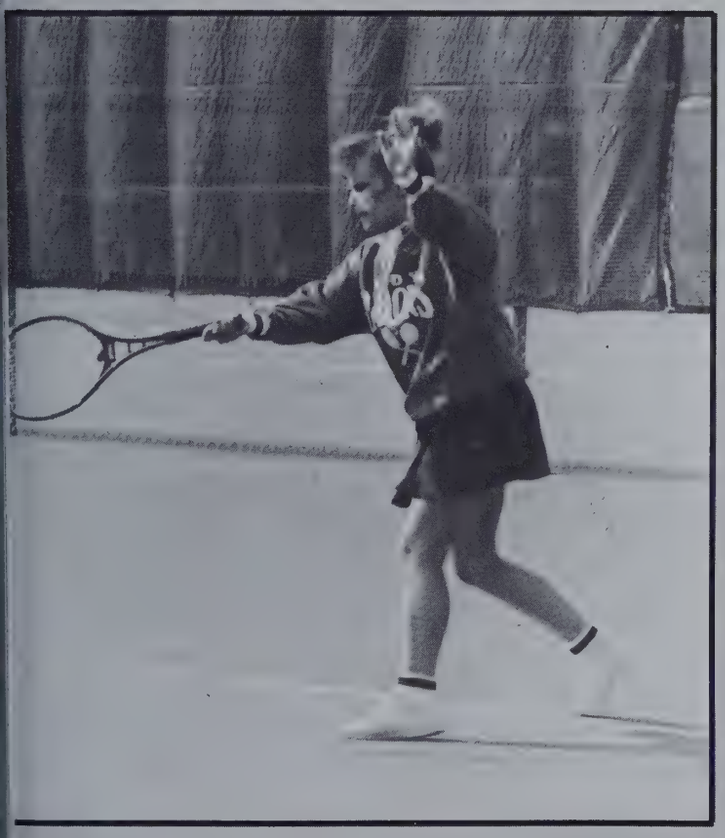
Stretching those muscles to get ready for her match is Amy Vose, who played at number three singles.





The number two doubles team of Monica Kisselbach (top) and Traci Schlosser (bottom) had a winning season.

Detrick Advances To State Finals

With a 10 win, 5 loss season, the tennis team, with its second place finish in both the Angola and DeKalb Invitationals, had a fairly good year. But they again failed to make it out of the sectional, losing to Carroll in the first round. However, Nicole Detrick did manage to advance to the state finals as an individual. The team's record against conference opposition was 6-2.

Two of the three singles players had winning records, with #2 Julie Dendinger having the best at 19-2. Nicole Detrick (13-8) and Amy Vose (10-11) were the other singles players.

The number two doubles team of Traci Schlosser and Monica Kisselbach also had a winning record. At #1 singles, four different girls played, with Jodi Vanderbeke (7-6) having the best record.

The reserves finished at 11-3 with Stacy Skelding being 11-3 at #2 doubles. Number three singles Sarah Schmidt was 9-5 and #2 singles Lisa Charlesworth was 8-6 to lead the junior varsity.

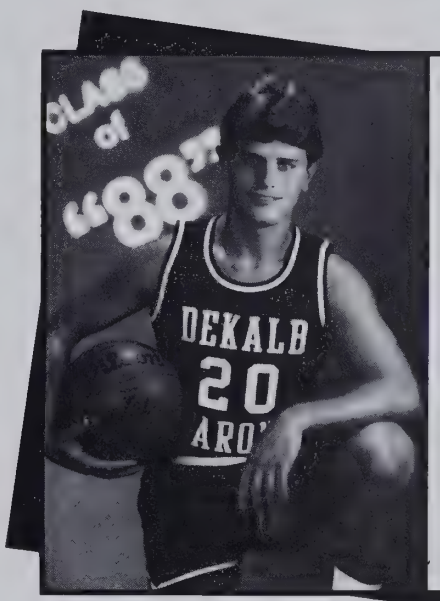
GINA TUCKER

Words can't express everything you have given me. Good luck and a positive future.
Love & peace,

Mom



JODY WIEDENHOEFT

Congratulations!
We knew you could make it and keep on going. We are proud of you!

Dad, Mom and Ryan

BRYAN K. YOUNG

Congratulations to my baby boy. You have reached the stars. Now go for the moon. Thank you for the precious memories you have given us.

Love, Mom, Pat, Dave & Annette

After being named Prom King and Queen, Chris Mason and David Spade lead off the next dance.

Chris Batchelder, Tonya Mergy, and Lori Muzzillo seem to be enjoying the relaxed atmosphere at a dance.

Barons

So, there you have it. By the end of the year, the daily routine was still much the same as usual with bells ringing, students arriving and leaving, teachers lecturing, etc.

But we hope that the 1988 SABER has pointed out some of the different dimensions that this year had.

As the year came to a close, the "Grim Reaper," sponsored by SADD, walked the halls reminding us not to drink and drive. The seniors practiced twice for graduation to prepare in case the outdoors ceremony got rained out. And everyone got confused when we ran the daily schedule in reverse.

We hope you have enjoyed seeing the Barons . . . From a Different Dimension.

The male members of the Jazz Annex sing "Kiss Him Goodbye" as part of the Evening of Jazz.

Shawn Smith works on Thursday morning setting up the Commercial Art display for the Fine Arts Festival.

Allison Hoff plays the part of Laurey Williams in a dream scene from the musical "Oklahoma."

From A Different Dimension

Senior Stuart Allison, whose personal best was 20'11", reaches out for the pit in the long jump.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The 1988 SABER staff would like to express their thanks to the people who made this yearbook a success: The Jostens Printing and Publishing Division representative, Mr. Mark Childs, for his patience; the senior photographer, Senior Portraits Inc.; the underclass photographer, Lifetouch National School Studios; the parents who got us started on the Ads for Grads; our advertisers and professional sponsors; and Anne Scranage for the artwork of the Baron head of a "different dimension."

SPECIFICATIONS

The 1988 SABER contains 212 pages and is 9 x 12. The cover is Royal Blue with Silver Foil, Silver, and Pink as applied colors. The end sheets are stainless steel color. The type face is Lydian Italic in 10 point for body copy and 8 point for picture captions with Lydian Bold Italic for emphasis. Several different headline styles are used throughout the book.
